Scaffold Gives Way Plunging Six Feet to Ground

BEAM FALLS ON COURTNEY

Dies at City Hospital; Contractor Taken to St. Rita's

A workman was killed and his body badly injured when a scaffold on which six men were working gave away at the old Woolworth building, 111-117 E. High-st., Wednesday morning.

John Courtney, 46, 131 E. McArthur, died at the City hospital, after the accident occurred at 11 o'clock. Courtney, contractor in charge of the work, living at 915 E. High-st., was severely injured in the fall of the scaffold.

Courtney and his father, John Courtney, 72, of 111-117 E. High-st., were on the scaffold when it fell. Courtney was taken to St. Rita's hospital, where he died.

OHIO PAYS TRIBUTE TO HAYES

19TH PRESIDENT IS HONORED

Library at Fremont Dedicated in Memory of Hayes

FREMONT, O., (Associated Press).—People of all walks of life were gathered here today to honor the memory of Rutherford B. Hayes, 19th president of the United States on the centennial anniversary of his birth.

Mingled with local workaday folks, some of whom remembered the former president as a boy were those who were intimate with him in his manhood and who had come from afar to his birthplace to render homage.

"CHINATOWN MAE" LOSES IN FIGHT FOR FORTUNE

NEW YORK (United Press).—"Chinatown Mae" wife of the late Bart Conroy, once king of the Chinese underworld, is not to get his fortune a jury of surrogate court in Brooklyn, decided today. Relatives who contested the last will and testament of Conroy, on the ground he was unduly influenced to leave all his $100,000 to his common law wife, known as the "Bluebird" had their contentions upheld by the judges.

FAIR PRICES FOR DEALERS NEXT

State Will Announce Schedule Within Few Days

COLUMBUS, (United Press).—The state fuel administration temporary schedule of fair prices for coal at the mines having been fixed, today had turned its attention to the task of preparing a similar schedule of dealers and distributors' prices.

This schedule Fuel Administrator Neal expects to have completed and approved by Governor Davis within the week, it was said. The list like the at-the-mine price schedule, will carry varying prices based upon the transportation and distribution costs in different localities.

Charges that the at-the-mine prices of from $3.56 to $4.86 a ton, established Tuesday, are in some instances 50 cents a ton above current market prices, was ignored by the fuel administration, today, except that it was pointed out that the prices established are maximum prices and are not intended to control as minimum charges.

It was stated unofficially, however, that altho Hocking coal has been selling at $3.25 a ton at the mine, this has been largely because of the lake seamen's strike and the consequent railroad embargo on lake shipments.

This has resulted in placing on the market for domestic consumption a considerable quantity of Ohio coal which otherwise would have gone outside the state. Operators themselves have stated that they have sold considerable coal at extremely low prices simply because they had cars loaded and had to sell quickly to prevent demurrage charges from wiping out all margin of profits.

SETTLEMENT MAY BE EFFECTED

Parley at Mudania Progressing Satisfactorily, Report

SECRET DIPLOMACY USED

World Press Barred From Conference of Delegates

LONDON (Associated Press).—An agreement has been concluded between the allied generals and Ismet Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist representative, who have been in consultation at Mudania over the question of an armistice since last October when the Greeks captured the Yank's bag and baggage.

It was an ideal day for the game. A coppery sun glowed in a cloudless sky and there was a midsummer warmth in the October air.

CONSTANTINOPLE (Associated Press).—The Turkish Nationalists have accepted in principle the allied note regarding the Near Eastern settlement, it was announced here this forenoon.

A communique issued by General Harrington, the British commander-in-chief regarding the Mudania conference which he is attending, says the conference is proceeding satisfactorily and that Ismet Pasha, the Nationalist representative, has refused orders to the Nationalist troops to avoid all contact with the British.

PRESS IS BARRED

CONSTANTINOPLE (United Press).—Secret diplomacy of the old world school, was employed at the little Marmara seaport city of Mudania today to avert a great religious war in the Near East.

Allies and Turks resumed their preliminary peace parley upon arrival of Greek delegates, whose absence yesterday caused postponement of the conference. The world press, which since Versailles has had access to every epoch-making conference of Europe, was barred. Such news as was available, was given out through official channels at Constantinople.

The conference at Mudania were reported today to be already deadlocked over the question of mutual evacuation of the neutral zone around the Straits, Mustapha Kemal, it was understood, has proposed that his Ottoman troops will quit the neutral zone in exchange for British evacuation of Chanak. General Harrington, for the British government, was expected to refuse this reported offer.

DISPUTE OVER THRACE

Overshadowing this dispute, however, was the all-important question of disposition of Thrace. At today's session it was reported this matter would be first taken up.

The Greeks will refuse to evacuate Thrace, it is understood. Greece is expected to prove adamant on this point, and to present a stumbling block to peaceful procedure of negotiations at Mudania. The Ottoman commander has made this evacuation one of his armistice conditions. The entire success of the conference hinges on this point.

RUSSIA IS FACTOR

CONSTANTINOPLE (Associated Press).—Russia loomed on the horizon today for the first time as likely to prove an important figure in the settlement of the Turkish problem. The negotiations at Mudania have brought to light the fact that Mustapha Kemal Pasha's advisers are trying him to obtain from the allies pledges for eventual fulfillment of all the conditions of the so-called national pact, including control of the straits and modification or annulment of the capitulations.

Should he succeed in this, it is said, he will at the same time be advancing a man around the bases before play was called. The women's advancement will be a general advanced type of citizen.

Yanks, Giants Start Second Family Fight

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK (Associated Press).—The two New York ball clubs—the Giants and the Yankees—engaged today in their second family fight for the honors of the annual world's series.

Thirty-five thousand spectators made up of local citizenry, with hundreds from out of town flocked out to the Polo grounds to see the intercommunal imbroglio between the winners of the National and American leagues renewed after an armistice since last October when the Giants captured the Yank's bag and baggage.

It was an ideal day for the game. A coppery sun glowed in a cloudless sky and there was a midsummer warmth in the October air.

"If this weather holds we shall see some pitching," said Bob Shawkey, the Yankee hurler, "for you can't beat the sun for offing up soup bones."

NEW YORK took its local world series calmly. A New York team was bound to win anyhow and there was no mad rush for the unserved sections in the upper grandstands and bleachers. There was plenty of room for the early comers and there were seats to spare at noon. The reserved sections in the lower grandstand, with every seat sold, did not fill up until game time. Of course, the usual brass band was on hand to keep the early comers in good humor.

CLOWNS ARE THERE

Nick Altrock and Al Schaucht did their baseball clowning acts before the game.

All the players of the two clubs reported in good condition except McQuillan, the Giant pitcher, who was slightly hurt by a batted ball in the first inning.

BASEBALL WEATHER

NEW YORK (United Press).—Bright, cloudless skies with brilliant sunshine, is the weather for the first game of the 1922 world's series.

Fair today and probably tomorrow, is the official forecast. It was mildly cool this morning with the temperature expected to creep up towards 80 by mid-afternoon.

Moderate north and north-east breezes made the day a perfect one for the Yankees and Giants and some 30,000 fans.

practice yesterday and the "stone bruise twins" Neft and Bush, who have about recovered from similar ailments to their heels, and were ready to oppose each other on the hurling hill today. Babe Ruth said he was in shape to play and did not think his wrenched side would bother him.

"Let 'em stick the ball over" said the Babe, who hustled about the clubhouse. "I'll swing all right. Same ball in both leagues you know and it will travel just as far if I get hold of it."

An engrossed testimonial signed by Governor Allan C. Ritchie of Maryland, Brother Paul, head of St. Mary's Industrial School of Baltimore, and others was presented to Babe Ruth before the game. Ruth went to school at St. Mary's. The Giants were the technical home folks for the first game and were early on the field, taking a long batting practice. George Kelly, first baseman of the Giants, crashed a couple in the bleachers to the delight of the throng.

LANDIS IS PRESENT

Judge Landis, high commissioner of baseball and General Pershing were the first of the distinguished notables to take their seats in the horseshoe boxes.

While the Yankees were taking their fielding practice, Governor Miller of New York and former Governor A. L. Smith, the Democratic nominee for governor who will run against Governor Miller, paraded across the field with a band and took their seats in a box near the Giants' base.

WOMAN SENATOR NOT INTERESTED IN FLAPPER

CARTERSVILLE, Ga. (Associated Press).—A woman who has lived to be 87 and still retains her optimism over the outlook for human control in America cannot help but realize that it is not so much a question of laws to govern men and women as it is a question of enforcement, said Mrs. W. H. Felton, who has become the first woman United States senator.

She declared at her home here today that she is succeeding the late Senator Thomas E. Watson without exciting herself over such questions as the tariff, the bonus and the "fast disappearing" flapper type of girl.

"Good laws and good lawmakers," she continued, "are already here. I shall not try to win glory in statesmanship. If only I can aid in making men and women live cleaner, sweeter and more wholesome lives, I shall be well satisfied."

Mrs. Felton reminds one of the old-fashioned mother portrayed on the American stage of today. Her hair is as white as snow and her face wrinkled but despite her age she is very active. Altho retiring in her manner, the "grand old woman of Georgia" as she is known throughout the south, does not hesitate to express her views on important issues of the day.

"I am not interested in the fast disappearing flapper type of girl," she said, "but I am interested in the modern young woman. The light of a new day is growing brighter for women in America and with their advancement we shall see a generally advanced type of citizen.

A strong nation is dependent upon its women and the manner in which the women of this country grasp their opportunities will decide most of the great issues of the future."

Senator Felton declared that legislation this country most needs today is that gained "at the knees of the mothers of America—laws that are greater than laws."

BRITISH WILL PAY ALL WAR DEBTS

Bankers Told English Will Settle With America

OTHER NATIONS DOUBTFUL

Germany Can't Settle Reparations, McKenna Declares

NEW YORK, (United Press)—Great Britain is determined to pay in full her war debt of more than $4,000,000,000 to the United States, Reginald McKenna, former British chancellor of the exchequer and a leading authority on international finance declared in a speech here today to the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

Other European nations, however, will be able to pay only a small portion of their debts, which with the British obligation now total approximately $11,000,000,000, the Britisher said. For these countries, he urged a definite postponement of any debt payments.

Germany, he predicted, never will be able to pay the huge reparations assessments of $32,000,000,000. Attempts of any allied powers to force Germany to pay this amount would wreck international trade, he argued.

"I can understand a certain England's determination to honor her word in full," McKenna said. "I believe I am justified in asking you to treat England's debt to the United States as certain to be provided for."

McKenna's statements, which he said he was making personally are regarded as significant in view of the fact that negotiations to refund the British debt to the United States are to be started soon with the American debt refunding commission.

"The inevitable conclusion," he asserted, "is that these international debts are far too great for the capacity of any of the debtor countries except England, who alone in her accumulated foreign investments has adequate resources with which to discharge her liabilities to the United States. Of the other nations has the greatest resources, but they are, I believe, quite insufficient to meet her obligations."

"The whole subject requires a rational consideration by the creditor, who must keep steadily in view the immediate effect of the payment of these debts on the general trade of the world."

McKenna's statement in this regard was in general accord with that of American speakers before the convention, and with the views of many of the delegates.

TWO AVENUES OPEN
The Britisher argued that Germany could pay her reparations and the other allied nations their debts only by two means. These were:

1—Sale of the investments of nationals in other countries.
2—Exporting large quantities of raw and manufactured goods.

"The indispensable condition for a rapid repayment of a nation's foreign debt is that there should be extraordinary demand for its goods, a demand which is a natural accompaniment of war, but does not exist in peace," McKenna added.

He argued that if Germany were allowed to build up a huge export trade and thus provide the means for paying her reparations, the foreign trade of all other nations of the world would be wrecked. He estimated that Germany could obtain $1,000,000,000 by inducing her nationals to sell foreign securities they hold and accepting marks for them, but stated that such action could not be compulsory.

LETTER IS FOUND

Pretty Choir Singer Longed to Mend for Rector

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (United Press) — "Oh, for the time when I can do your mending," Mrs. Eleanor Mills, pretty choir singer, wrote to the Rev. Edward W. Hall, with whom she was slain September 16, according to a report here today, quoting a letter said to be in the hands of Prosecutor Beckman, of Somerset.

It was stated that the day before the letter was written, Mrs. Mills watched Mrs. Hall, wife of the dead pastor, sew up a tear in his trousers, suffered in climbing a fence. Authorities attach considerable importance to the alleged letter as indicating a suggestion of affection between the slain couple.

LIMA MAN DRAWS LONG STAY IN AUGLAIZE JAIL

WAPAKONETA, (Special). — W. H. Clements, 755 Greenlawn-av. Lima, will spend 90 days in the Auglaize-co. jail. It was decreed here by Justice of the Peace B. G. Belcher. Clements was arraigned before him on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, near St. Marys.

Justice cut the maximum penalty for the offense in half and assessed Clements only a $50 fine and 30 days in jail. The sentence provides for Clements' incarceration beyond the first of the New Year.

DOUBTS AND FEARS FILL MINDS OF LION HUNTERS

Nave Woods Clogged With Armed Men Seeking Animals

MANY LIVES ENDANGERED

Auto Party Passes Between Riflemen and Apparitions

KENTON, (Special). — "Them lions must've come from some mountain," opined the sage of Harding-co. as he observed the young army of hunters break into casual groups near the now celebrated Nave woods. "Whaddya mean?" demanded the convinced participant. "Mountains? What mountains could they have come from around here?"

"Mt. Victory," the sage answered, and pointed on up the street. "Phantoms."

Hysteria declared by prolonged and persistent declarations of inexperienced lion hunters.

Dreams that have grown into a possible reality then the tenacity of their existence.

Tired and worn, the brave five hundred who have scoured every inch of territory in which the two lions reported to be roaming near Mt. Victory are said to have been seen, are beginning to doubt the veracity of the reports.

They are beginning to fear their own shadows which lurk dangerously by near possible hiding places of these they say.

FEAR CROVDS
A fear inspired by the fact that the country surrounding Mt. Victory is becoming clogged with hundreds of people who are attempting to locate the lions is virtually bringing them back to the original report which was first given utterance here a week ago.

Somebody is going to be accidentally shot, the hunters say. No now, rather than take chances with the cruel hand of fate, they are beginning to investigate the original report. They are asking every bit of evidence to determine whether or not the animals being sought are really lions or mere phantoms.

This desire for more definite facts was inspired when Frank Gilbert, leading the hunt, believed that he caught a full view of the two animals late Tuesday night. He raised his rifle to his shoulder ready to fire at them, but an automobile passed between them and his target and for the sake of safety he refrained. The automobile pilot reported that it did not observe the lions.

Further doubts were added when examination of tracks appeared to have been left by the lions were declared to be nothing more than the tracks of a large dog.

HUNTERS PERSISTENT
Yet the chase hasn't been given up.

Reliability of statements made by those who claim to have seen the lions is said to be the best.

Kenton and Mt. Victory residents are in a quandary.

Meanwhile Jim Thorpe the Indian football star, is toughing his Orang Indian gridiron squad, on the lion hunt. Unlike the rest of the lion hunters, his squad is unarmed. "We're going to tackle the lions if they come our way," Jim says.

BANKERS SEEK U.S. AID FOR EUROPE

Immediate Action is Necessary, Financiers Declare

NEW YORK, (United Press). — Immediate action by the United States, looking toward a readjustment of the critical European economic situation is strongly favored by the financial interests of the country, interviews with scores of bankers here for the American Bankers' Association convention showed.

Sentiment among the bankers seems almost universal that a settlement of the old world's economic financial problems is a precedent to real, permanent American prosperity.

Many believe that a reduction or cancellation of the $11,000,000,000 should be made. Others favor holding the debt as a club over the European nations to force them to put their houses in order, in accordance with American economic views.

As the convention met Wednesday to hear Reginald McKenna, former British chancellor of the exchequer, speak on reparations and the allied debt, it seemed certain the association would go on record as urging the Harding administration to help the old world.

LAKE SEAMAN'S STRIKE TIES UP EIGHT SHIPS

CHICAGO, — Eight ships are tied up by the lake seamen's strike, officials of the Seamen's Union declared Wednesday. Three of these are docked at Chicago and five at Cleveland.

Cleveland representatives charged Wednesday that the Lake Carriers' Association against which the strike was called, as violating the seamen's law, by sending out vessels with less than 65 percent of the crew certified skilled seamen.

OWEC TO FEICE
Mrs. Lola Shoemaker, 956 Brice-av. has asked common pleas court to enjoin George and Margaret Pracht, 962 Brice-av. from infringing on her lot. Mrs. Shoemaker avers that the Prachts constructed a fence two feet over the property line of a lot owned by her.

DELEGATES NAMED
County chapters of the W. C. T. U. will be represented at the state convention in Findlay, Oct. 17-20. Miss Georgia Hoppe, the only federal woman prohibition agent in America, is one of the speakers.

HARDING SEES WORLD SERIES

WASHINGTON, — President will "watch" the world's series in his office in the White House here via United Press.

The United Press leased wire from the Pico Grounds New York, was hooked up to the White House telegraph room today and an operator assigned to receive the play by play account of the game for the president.

Mr. Harding, who believes the Yanks will win the series, expressed keen interest this morning in the arrangements.

CENTRAL HI GIRLS TO HOLD MEET

Blue Triangle Club Will Gather at Y. W. Program

Central High girls of the Blue Triangle club will hold a meeting at the Y. W. C. A., Wednesday at 4 p. m.

More than one hundred are expected to attend this first meeting of the year. Elaborate plans have been made to entertain the girls.

It will be in the nature of a get-together meeting and a renewing of friendship, as well as planning future work for the year.

Mrs. Marguerite Cramer, girls' work secretary of the Y. W. C. A., is in charge of the activities.

The program will start with an address of welcome by the president of the club, Miss Dorothy Lawson who will also introduce the other speakers, Mrs. A. N. Wiesty and Miss Cramer. Ellitha Ludwig will give a piano solo, followed by a reading by Miriam Morton.

Games and songs will add to the entertainment and refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Other meetings scheduled for Wednesday at the "Y" are the Tour-Jour Prote club supper at 6 p. m., at which delegates from the Oberlin and Geneva conference will speak; and the first meeting of the Matrons Club at 9:30.

GAS CAR TEST IS PLANNED HERE

May Use Naptha Driven Stock on Defiance Line

Lima will again be the testing ground of an interurban car propelled by gasoline if plans of the American Railway Operating Co. are carried out.

This company has reached a tentative agreement with the owners of the Defiance branch of the I. C. & E. railway whereby gasoline driven cars will be placed in service in the near future.

Henry Ford attempted to solve the transportation puzzle on his D. T. & I. railroad and met the same result as promoters of the Dan Patch line in Minnesota did several years ago. The experiments failed.

A new type of car is now being constructed, chamber of commerce officials have been told, and will soon be ready for a test here. Greatly decreased costs of operation are believed to be possible.

Local interurban engineers are watching with interest the preparations and agree if the tests are successful the whole system of interurban transportation may be revolutionized.

DOCTOR TELLS LIONS OF TRAVELS ON CONTINENT

An interesting descriptive talk of his travels in Europe was given the Lions at their Wednesday luncheon by Dr. Harry S. Noble of St. Mary's, who has visited three continents and nineteen countries. The speaker gave a word picture of the historic places of France, particularly Versailles and the battle fields. His impression of England, Spain, and Algiers were told in an interesting manner.

James Grubb favored the Lions with vocal numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Grubb. A number of visitors were present.

MEN AND MATTERS

Examinations will be held at the postoffice Saturday for a clerk-carrier. Successful applicants will be placed on the reserve list for the Lima postoffice. Full information can be obtained from the clerk in charge of civil service examinations.

Glen C. Webb, president of the chamber of commerce, and J. Kennard Johnson, manager, attended a luncheon of the Dayton chamber of commerce in honor of Julius H. Barnes president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and former grain administrator Wednesday.

HARDING APPEALS TO BANKERS

Aid in Reconstruction of World Urged by President

COOPERATION IS DEMANDED

Tribute Paid to Financial Institutions in Message

NEW YORK, (United Press). — President Harding today urged the financial interests of America to aid in the financial and economic reconstruction of the world.

In a message to the American Bankers Association declared the chief executive declared the increasing appeals of the world for American cooperation in solving the problems resulting from the war "cannot be denied."

These appeals, Mr. Harding said, "call for an application of the same spirit of wide and willing cooperation which is the very basis of the development of our banks."

"Today our country, the world, all humankind, are demanding that cooperation be extended to wider realms," he added.

After referring to the part that the bankers played during the war, the president's message said: "I wish to appeal to your great organization in behalf of my conviction that another, a more inclusive, and perhaps a more difficult opportunity of service is presented to you."

"The banking community has also contributed in national problems. COOPERATION DEMANDED"

"Today our country, the world, all humankind, are demanding that this cooperation be extended to wider realms, to those social, moral, ethical problems which are crying for understanding attention. They cannot be denied they grow increasingly insistent. They call for an application of the same spirit of wide and willing cooperation which is the very basis of the bank."

"I have often thought of the bank as the first among modern institutions of social unification. On the basis of a complete confidence in its integrity and aims, it aggregates together in vast, available masses, the scattered bits of credit and resources which otherwise would be unavailable for great undertakings and makes possible the huge producing organizations which characterize the modern industrial community."

We have come to times which require a like aggregation of the social sense, the ethical ideals, the moral inspirations and the best intelligence in order to promote the true welfare of men individually and in communities. This I have come to regard as the most pressing requirement of our day; and to its accomplishment I invite the assistance of you men who have been foremost among social cooperation."

This world is not given to rewarding those who serve it, with opportunities for ease and pleasure. Instead on those who have been tested and found useful, it is wont to place yet greater burdens. To a full share in these obligations I am now urgently inviting you.

"By experience, knowledge and aims, you bankers are peculiarly equipped to render large service in the wide sphere. It has long been my observation that the leadership of the banking forces in the local community is ever effective and devoted to community welfare; and the same helpful relationship must be maintained through the nation, and in the nation's outside relations."

BANKS MUST LEAD
"Therefore, in recommending our people to sane expenditures, to ways of economy and thrift to the consideration of municipal and national problems in that conscience which builds the temple of confidence, the banking forces must lead, and we must have the widest commitment to the prudence, the deliberate understanding and the preference for useful service which makes for the security of our people as a whole."

"History teaches that blind effort to obstruct such movements has often produced momentary disaster but never prevented ultimate advance. The world is too old and ought to be too wise, to reserve such tactics now. Rather its best intelligence should be given to open minded cooperation in every earnest project of inquiry and analysis which looks to the general betterment."

"Thus will its most capable leaders help guide society away from pitfalls and dangers, while keeping it moving on the upward path."

"I count the men of your profession as among such leaders; and I know that whenever can effectively impress you with the chief importance of the duty I am to suggest, will find satisfaction in the prompt and eager response which will come to him."

Beethoven's Art Wins In Battle With Turpentine

Can musical zeal surmount the nauseating smell of newly-applied paint?

A casual visitor at Memorial Hall Wednesday would have been forced to admit that the champions of Wagner, Beethoven, Mozart and other weavers of ethereal strains will brave odors of turpentine and smelly paint ingredients that assail the olfactory organs as a sacrifice to art.

Despite that a corps of painters were at the climax of converting walls and ceiling of the Memorial Hall foyer from a dingy green into ivory, a committee of the Womans' Music club remained there reserving seats for a musicale Thursday night.

Utterly disregarding the acid laden air, the committee disposed of tickets with dispatch. Occasional drops of paint, falling from the painter's brush far overhead, were disregarded.

In vain the janitor strove to dislodge them, but nay—they held the fort.

LION HUNTERS IN FINAL DRIVE

Believe Roaming Beasts Will be Cornered Soon

MOUNT VICTORY, (United Press). — Five hundred men combed the woods of the A. P. Nave farm near here Wednesday for two lions which for nearly a week have terrorized the residents of this district.

One of the beasts is believed to be wounded in the rear paw. A national guardman, who fired on them Tuesday, said he found blood stained tracks leading off in the direction they fled.

The Nave woods comprised approximately 1,000 acres. Hunters declared they would scour it thoroughly. Poses Wednesday were spurred on by several fleeting glimpses of the yellow beasts near here during Tuesday's hunt.

Prospective lion hunters flocked into action and Mount Victory from as far south as Springfield and as far north as Toledo. Ohio's first big lion hunt, organized and carefully planned, was scheduled to start at 9 a. m.

Frank Gebert, who said he saw the lions Tuesday, will lead the hunt. He will be assisted by Frederick Bondler, 77-year-old bear hunter. Spike Hennessey, crack rifle shot of the Toledo police force and 50 hunting dogs Wednesday augmented the strength of the hunting party.

HORSESHOE MEET

Columbus Grove Champs to Play Lima Firemen

The pick of Columbus Grove horseshoe pitchers will attempt Thursday afternoon at the E. High courts to wrest ringing honors from the Lima fire apartment team, captained by Floyd Matthews.

Every one of the eight Columbus Grove pitchers is a champ, —chump or near-champ in his locality and Matthews' aggregation expects some trouble.

The visiting team is composed of Levi Nelswander, Amos Bracy, E. Anderson, C. Miller, B. Anderson, A. Mayberry, J. Kever and William Crawford.

The Lima lineup will be B. Burr, C. Wolf, J. Shaw, C. Hall, B. Strahm, F. Matthews, R. Wolf and C. Holman.

A gallery of several hundred fans is expected to view the contest.

MINE CONFERENCE OPTIMISTIC

Conclusion of Wage Commission Dispute Seen Wednesday

HARDING TO NAME BODY

Workers Ask Representatives of Both Sides be Included

CLEVELAND, (Associated Press). — With accredited spokesmen designated by the operators, bituminous miners and coal producers went into joint conference here Wednesday to carry out section three of the Cleveland agreement providing for the naming of a commission to formulate a method to be followed by the soft coal industry in negotiating a wage scale agreement to become effective April 1, 1923, when the present contract between miners and operators expires.

Both miners and operators were optimistic that conclusion of the joint conference would be reached Wednesday.

The question of naming a panel for presentation to President Harding from which a fact-finding commission would be selected, provided under the terms of the Cleveland agreement, was on Wednesday's joint conference program.

At caucus of operators late Monday it was decided that, since such a commission had been provided for under the Borah-Winslow coal bill, submitting a panel of names to the president for such a commission was not needed. Miners' officials, however, stated they insist on the naming of such a commission and leave the final selection to President Harding. Miners held that the personnel of such a commission should include representatives of miners and operators.

A government telegram received since the conference opened asking the joint session to submit a panel of twenty names of persons "disassociated with the industry," indicates both operators and miners believe that the president will not include any persons engaged in the industry on the commission.

Following addresses Tuesday by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, Thomas I. Watkins of New York, president of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Corporation, all obstacles that have been a bar to a speedy conclusion of the conference seem to have been swept aside.

RUMMAGE SALES HALTED BY COURT ROOM CHANGES

Weekly rummage sales, which have been a time honored institution at the court house, will cease to be.

The assembly hall in the basement used for the sales is to be remodeled for an extra court room. Bids for fitting the room up are being advertised by the county commissioners.

Owing to the nature of the work the contracts can be split up, and let immediately as they come under the $500 limitation.

MISS STOLZENBACH WINS

Miss Mary Stolzenbach won the title to 53 shares of stock in the Stolzenbach Baking Co., listed on the company works in the name of John H. RECORD OF ABDICATION OF CONSTANTINE LOST; SUSPECT SYMPATHIZERS

ATHENS, (Associated Press). — Constantine's act of abdication disappeared. The document is said to have been seized by military officials sympathizing with the deposed monarch in an effort to save him his throne. The officials believed, it is said, that the revolutionary troops would adhere to the old king when they landed in Greece on arriving from the Aegean islands where the revolution started.

Former Premier Triantafyllakos sent the original document to the National printing plant but the officials prevented its reproduction and it is assumed made away with it.

M. Triantafyllakos has promised to give Acting Premier Krokidas a letter sent him by Constantine regarding his abdication.

$17,500 SOUGHT BY SALESMAN

Brings Action Against Fisk Tire Co., for Commissions

An action to collect $17,500 commission alleged to be due from the Fisk Tire Co., New York, for sale of tires and rubber products, to Lima truck companies, was instituted in common pleas court Wednesday by Frank P. Sevier, agent, 720 State-st.

Sevier sets forth that he was employed in 1917 as agent for Fisk Tires in Lima territory, and furthermore was empowered to act as a wholesale distributor. He was to receive a salary, and a reasonable commission, he says.

Especially was this firm anxious to sell the Garford and Gram-Bornstein truck companies then engaged in turning out fat war contracts for the United States government, his petition avers. He declares he was instructed to pay particular attention to that class of business.

Sevier avers, he did so, and was able to sell $50,000 worth of tires to Gram-Bornstein, and $300,000 to the Garford plant, he relates.

He declares that the tire company never has adequately compensated him for this amount of business. He is therefore seeking judgment for a five percent commission on sales, or a total of $17,500.

BRANCH BANK IS NEW PROBLEM

Small Communities Oppose Spread of Larger Institutions
PUELICHER, NEW A. B. A. HEAD
Believes in Service to Public Essential to Success

(BY B. C. FORBES)
NEW YORK — (Special) — The new president of the American Bankers' Association, now meeting here, is J. B. Puelicher, of Milwaukee, and a tall fellow doesn't walk in one's head.

Mr. Puelicher has been as keenly interested in satisfying his employees as in satisfying his customers. Mr. Puelicher is of the type who doesn't believe that a bank exists merely to take in deposits and lend them out again at a high rate of interest as possible. He believes that a banker should do all he can for his community and that, in doing it, a banker should be associated with him should be a maximum of happiness out of it and out of business.

He once said to me: "No business exists solely for the purpose of making money for its owners. It exists to be wholly successful."

"Why not?" "For the same reason that no man applies for himself alone can hope to reach the top of the ladder. A business institution is valuable to a community in so far as it serves the needs of the public; in so far as it provides for its employees' opportunities for their advancement, as well as opportunities for earning a livelihood."

Now his institution, the Marshall and Puelicher bank, handles its employees during sickness and health, should be learned not only by other bankers but by other employers. "I headed financial and business in the night," Mr. Puelicher's ideas. "The bank has prospered remarkably, and here it is selected from 23,000 banks to become the president of their national association."

A convention would be tame without a good, old-fashioned fight. The A. B. A. convention is staging a heavyweight set-to. The opponents are the advocates of Branch Banks and the anti-branch bankers.

Some of the more powerful national banks want to be allowed to open branches at least in their cities and if denied feasible in their own state. A great many of the smaller banks are against any such move. The reason is that legislation permitting national banks to dot a state with branches would lead to the acquisition of overwhelming banking power by "Wall Street."

The fight started Monday but reporters were barred.

The opponents of branch banks claim that if the country were covered with branches of gigantic central institutions, the small banks would suffer even worse competition than small merchants suffer from mail-order houses. They claim also that the fellows sent to run these branches would be in the community but not of the community, that they wouldn't have the same knowledge or interest in local affairs, that local business men would have their applications for loans passed upon by outsiders and directors at headquarters, and that they would be in constant contact with the community.

There are unquestionably many strong objections to transforming America into a branch bank country.

Yet isn't the whole trend of modern business and modern finance and modern banking towards bigness? Have not large units, large organizations been found necessary in most lines of activity?

Having been brought up in a country where branch banking has operated with the fullest success, and where I have seen a single bank flourish in the last twenty-five years, I am probably unduly hard to frighten by the arguments against branch banks. Especially as I'm very familiar with the conduct of banking not only in Scotland but in England and also in Canada.

The question is to be addressed Wednesday by a man who is head of the largest bank in the world, and who has 1600 branches. That Branch Bank would have won her present banking power throughout the world had she had only thousands of small banks is not even doubtful; it is certain that she wouldn't. During the last two years we have had a tremendously large number of bank failures and bank embarrassments. Thus, too, notwithstanding the many valuable services rendered by the Federal Reserve Banks, the establishment of which it is credited has largely done away with the need for branch banking.

I don't think that branch banking will come into vogue in this country regardless of any action the A. B. A. may take this year or next or the next.

But I do believe that it will not be intelligently-managed small banks all over the country, any more than chain stores and mail-order houses have ruined well-managed grocery stores or other stores.

Let us now turn to another phase of the big gathering in New York. Some 5,000 delegates had registered for yesterday morning, and a grand total of 10,000 is expected. This is the largest number ever recorded at any national convention. I mingled with the delegates yesterday with representative bankers from various sections of the country and I didn't encounter a single pessimist, nor, not one.

All talk of improving conditions, of reducing the value of the work done by the War Finance Corporation, of Eugene Meyer Jr., is helping different sections to pull thru the hard time of the last two years.

Said William Livingston, the veteran president of the Dime Savings Bank of New York: "The outlook is, in every respect, fine. The outlook, also, is fine—speaking, that is, of Detroit and itself and itself, irrespective of any trouble in Europe. The un-

Cancellation of the treaty therefore is regarded by many of the nationalists as a sound national policy.

TIME LIMIT EXTENDED
SMYRNA — (Associated Press) — The local Turkish authorities have extended the time limit for the evacuation of the Christian refugees from Smyrna to October 8, owing to the discovery in the suburbs of considerable numbers of persons who have been unable to leave under the provisions of the original Turkish invitation. These refugees now are being marshaled by the Turkish gendarmes in a house to house search and are being turned over to the American relief committee for embarkation.

FIRST WOMAN SECRETARY
CONSTANTINOPLE — (United Press) — The first Mohammedan woman secretary in history—Nebahat Hanoum—accompanied the Kemal delegation to Mudania.

That Mustapha Kemal views the Mudania parley as one of extreme importance, was testified by the fact that Fevzi Pasha, his chief of staff, General Refet Pasha, and Hamid Bey have accompanied Ismet Pasha to the conference.

GREECE CALLS SOLDIERS
LONDON — (United Press) — Greece has called up for possible resumption of war the military classes of 1917 and 1918, and has instructed her delegates to Mudania to reject any proposal for evacuation of Thrace, according to a News Agency dispatch from Athens today.

The new Greek generalissimo Nider, departed for Thrace this morning, according to a United Press dispatch direct from the Greek capital.

Indications are that the Greeks will once more wage war against the Turks, unless permitted to retain positions in the Thrace basin east of the Maritza river.

In a letter to the Times today, Venizelos protests against the proposed handing over of eastern Thrace to the Turks.

The allied commissioners have called Greece's attention to the importance of restraining her troops from clashing with the Turks. They have received a protest from Mustapha Kemal to the effect that Greeks in Thrace are pillaging and burning.

The plaintiff asks that she be allowed to resume her former name, Ada Becker.

CREASY DEFIANT AFTER VERDICT

Convicted Sweetheart Says He Will Get New Trial

MINEOLA, N. Y. — (United Press) — The defiant even in the shadow of the electric chair, William Creasy, the "Kentucky sweetheart," declared today he is confident he will get a new trial on a charge of murdering Edith Lacey, Freeport, N. Y., teacher.

"I'm not dead yet," he said. "Creasy was convicted of first degree murder last night and will be sentenced Saturday."

The jury deliberated for two hours over the hundreds of letters written by, or to the slain woman and over the bloody pillow and the weapon with which the killing was done.

Without the twitch of a muscle, Creasy listened to the verdict. His father hurried to his side to speak comforting words. As he was being led back to his cell his sister flung her arms around his neck and clung to him desperately.

On the other side of the court room relatives of the dead woman listened to the verdict apparently unmoved.

A motion for a new trial was denied and Creasy's attorneys announced they would appeal the case.

BILLBOARD STRIPPERS STEAL BERLIN'S ADS

BERLIN. — Billboard strippers constitute a new type of thief on Berlin's police blotter. Due to the increased value of wastepaper, the plundering of street advertisements has set in.

The thieves work at night, and so far have confined their activities mainly to the round poster pillars which dot the city's thoroughfares, adorned with varicolored bills advertising theaters, restaurants, dance halls, etcetera. One young man was found to have torn down 50 kilograms of old paper and stored it at home for future sale.

ENGLAND'S BABIES SAVED AGAIN

Death Rate Among Children Decreases Rapidly

LONDON — (Associated Press) — Only a little while ago alarmists were indulging in all sorts of dire predictions concerning the future of England because, it was alleged, not enough babies were being born. The great middle class, called the backbone of the country, was declared by some pessimists to be doomed to speedy extinction unless it produced more babies.

Now these lamentations have ceased. Some far-seeing and logical statisticians point out that the future of a country is not determined so much by the number of babies born as by the number of babies which survive the first year of life and grow up. Looked at from that angle England is not doing so badly.

In this all important matter. During the month of August it is pointed out that the death rate of children under one year of age was only 41 per 1,000 births. In 1919 London's rate for the same period was 55.

Compared with the beginning of this century the baby-saving figures give still greater cause for rejoicing among those who reckon the future of England depends, above all things, on babies. The first four weeks of August 1901 gave an infant mortality rate for London of 267—more than six times that of 1922 which proves, it is argued, that if babies can save England, England will be saved.

Cholera Adds to Horror of Disaster in Bengal

CALCUTTA — (Associated Press) — Floods in Northern Bengal have taken an enormous toll of life, according to passengers on the first train to reach here from Darjeeling in eight days.

It is impossible to estimate the extent of the disaster at present, but the travelers estimate that several thousand persons have been drowned, other thousands made homeless and destitute and valuable crops destroyed. The floods are said to be the worst in the history of Bengal. An outbreak of cholera is adding to the difficulties of the relief workers.

FIVE ARE FINED

Liquor Charges Net City $1,000 Wednesday Morning

More than $1,000 was added to the city coffers by liquor fines when five men arrested on charges of bootlegging entered pleas of guilty before Judge Emmett J. Jackson. All of them could not pay, but were given a time by the court to settle or go to the jail.

William Thomas, 38, of 444 S. Main-st., who was bound over on a federal charge, was switched back to criminal court and pleaded guilty. He paid $300 fine for his alleged illicit sales. Dave McGuire, 26, bartender in Thomas' soft drink saloon was fined $100.

Other fines paid were, Eli Brentlinger, $300; and Harry Watt, $200. C. N. Dixon, fined $300 had not paid his fine by noon.

WASHDAY FIRE CAUSES BLAZE ON HOUSE ROOF

A red hot stove stoked for washday and a defective chimney combined to produce a small roof blaze at the residence of Porter Ermond, 309 E. High-st., Wednesday.

Firemen from Central station extinguished the fire with chemicals and a few buckets of water. The house is the property of Robert Tolaz.

BRITISH WILL PAY ALL WAR DEBTS

Bankers Told English Will Settle With America

OTHER NATIONS DOUBTFUL

Germany Can't Settle Reparations, McKenna Declares

NEW YORK, (United Press.)—Great Britain is determined to pay in full her war debt of more than $4,000,000,000 to the United States, according to a statement by the British ambassador, Lord Curzon, in a speech here today to the convention of the American Bankers' Association.

Other European nations, however, will be able to pay only a small portion of their debts, which with the British obligation, now total approximately $11,000,000,000, the British said. For this reason, he urged a definite postponement of any debt payments.

Germany, he predicted, never will be able to pay the war reparations assessments of $32,000,000,000. Attempts of any allied powers to force Germany to pay this amount would wreck international trade, he urged.

"I can substantiate a lot of Lord Curzon's determination to honor her bond in full," McKenna said. "I believe I am justified in asking you to treat England's debt to the United States as certain to be provided for."

STATEMENTS SIGNIFICANT

McKenna's statements, which he said he was speaking personally, are regarded as significant in view of the fact that negotiations to refund the British debt to the United States are to be started soon, with the American debt refunding commission.

"The inevitable conclusion," he asserted, "is that these international debts are far greater for the capacity of any of the debtor countries except England, who alone in her accumulated foreign investments has adequate resources with which to discharge her liabilities to the United States. Of the others, France has the greatest resources, but they are, I believe, quite insufficient to meet her obligations."

"The whole subject requires a rational consideration by the creditors, who must keep steadily in view the immediate effect of the payment of these debts on the general trade of the world."

McKenna's statement in this regard was in general accord with that of American speakers before the convention, and with the views of many of the delegates.

TWO ADVANCES OPEN

The Britisher argued that Germany could pay her reparations and the other allied nations their debts only by two means. These were:

- 1—Sale of the investments of nationals of the respective debtor nations in other countries.
- 2—Exporting large quantities of raw and manufactured products.

"The indispensable condition for a rapid repayment of a nation's foreign debt is that there should be an extraordinary demand for its goods, a demand which is a natural accompaniment of war, but does not exist in peace," McKenna added.

He argued that if Germany were allowed to build up a huge export trade and thus provide the means for paying her reparations, the foreign trades of all other nations of the world would be wrecked. He estimated that Germany could obtain $1,000,000,000 by inducing her nationals to sell foreign securities, bonds and accepting marks for them, but stated that such action could not be compulsory.

LETTER IS FOUND

Pretty Choir Singer Longed to Mend for Rector

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (United Press.) — "Oh, for the time when I can do your mending," Mrs. Eleanor Mills, pretty choir singer, wrote to the Rev. Edward W. Hall, with whom she was slain September 16, according to a report here today, quoting a letter said to be in the hands of Prosecutor Reekman, of Somerset.

It was stated that the day before the letter was written, Mrs. Mills watched Mrs. Hall, wife of the dead pastor, sew up a tear in his trousers, suffered in climbing a fence.

Authorities attached considerable importance to the alleged letter as indicating a suggestion of affection between the slain couple.

LIMA MAN DRAWS LONG STAY IN AUGLAIZE JAIL

WAPAKONETA. — (Special.) — W. H. Clements, 755 Greenlaw-av., Lima, will spend 90 days in the Auglaize-co. jail, it was decreed here by Justice of the Peace B. G. Belcher.

Clements was arraigned before him on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, near St. Marys.

The justice set the maximum penalty for the offense in half and assessed Clements only a $50 fine and 3 months in jail. The sentence provides for Clements' incarceration beyond the first of the New Year.

JURY SUMMONS CANCELLED WHEN MAN CHANGES PLEA

Summons issued Tuesday ordering 12 Lima citizens, good men and true, to appear in criminal court as jurors in the trial of Dan Armstrong, arrested for operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated, were cancelled Wednesday.

Armstrong appeared in court and changed his plea to guilty. He was fined $50 and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

DOUBTS AND FEARS FILL MINDS OF LION HUNTERS

Nave Woods Clogged With Armed Men Seeking Animals

MANY LIVES ENDANGERED

Auto Party Passes Between Riflemen and Apparitions

KENTON. — (Special.) — "Them lions must've come from some mountain," opined the sage of Hardin-co as he observed the young army of hunters break into casual groups near the now celebrated Nave woods. "Whadaya mean?" demanded the convinced participant, "Mountains? What mountain could they have come from around here?"

"Mt. Victory," the sage answered and pointed on up the street.

Phantoms.

Hysteria induced by prolonged and persistent declarations of inexperienced lion hunters.

Dreams that have grown into a possible reality thru the tenacity of their existence.

Tired and worn, the brave five hundred who have scoured every inch of territory in which the two lions roamed, are beginning to doubt the veracity of the reports.

They are beginning to fear their own shadows which lurk dangerously near possible hiding places of lions they covet.

A fair inspired by the fact that the country surrounding Mt. Victory is becoming clogged with hundreds of people who are attempting to locate the lions is virtually bringing them back to their original position, which was last given utterance here a week ago.

Somebody is going to be a candidate for the hunters' eye. So now, rather than take chances with the cruel hand of fate, they are beginning to move light to the original report. They are sitting every bit of evidence to determine whether or not the animals being sought are really lions or mere phantoms.

This doubt for more definite facts was inspired when Frank Gilbert, who is hunting the lions, believed that he caught a full view of the two animals late Tuesday night. He raised his rifle to his shoulder ready to fire at them, but an automobile passed between them and his target and the automobile party reported that it did not observe the lions.

Further doubts were added when examination of tracks supposed to have been left by the lions were declared to be nothing more than the tracks of a large dog.

HUNTERS PERSISTENT

Yet the chase hasn't been given up.

Reliability of statements made by those who claim to have seen the lions is said to be the best.

Kenton and Mt. Victory residents are in a quandary.

Meanwhile Jim Thorpe, the Indian football star, is toughening his Oorang Indian grizzly squad on the lion hunt. Unlike the rest of the lion hunters, his squad is unarmored. "We're going to tackle the lions if they come our way," Jim says.

BANKERS SEEK U.S. AID FOR EUROPE

Immediate Action is Necessary, Financiers Declare

NEW YORK. — (United Press.) — Immediate action by the United States, looking toward a readjustment of the cultural Europe economic situation is strongly favored by the financial interests of the country, interviews with scores of bankers here for the American Bankers' Association convention showed.

Sentiment among the bankers seems almost universal that a settlement of the old world's economic financial problems is a precedent to real, permanent American prosperity.

Many believe that a reduction or cancellation of the $11,000,000,000 allied war debt to the United States should be made. Others favor holding the debt as a club over the European nations to force them to put their houses in order, in accordance with American economic views.

As the convention met Wednesday to hear Reginald McKenna, former British chancellor of the exchequer, speak on reparations and the allied debt, it seemed certain the association would go on record as urging the Harding administration to help the old world.

Mr. Harding, who believes the Yanks will win the series, expressed keen interest this morning in the arrangements.

CENTRAL HI GIRLS TO HOLD MEET

Blue Triangle Club Will Gather at Y. W. Program

Central High girls of the Blue Triangle club will hold a meeting at the Y. W. C. A., Wednesday at 4 p. m.

More than one hundred are expected to attend this first meeting of the year. Elaborate plans have been made to entertain the girls.

It will be in the nature of a get-together meeting and a renewing of friendship, as well as planning future work for the year.

Miss Margaret Creamer, girls' work secretary of the Y. W. C. A., is in charge of the activities.

The program will start with an address of welcome by the president of the club, Miss Dorothy Lawson, who will also introduce the other speakers, Mrs. A. N. Wisely and Miss Catherine E. Ludwig will read a piano solo, followed by a reading by Marian Morton.

Games and songs will add to the entertainment and refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the program.

Other meetings scheduled for Wednesday at the "Y." are the Tourist Club supper at 6 p. m. at which delegates from the Oberlin and Geneva conference will speak; and the first meeting of the Matrons Class at 9:30.

GAS CAR TEST IS PLANNED HERE

May Use Naptha Driven Stock on Defiance Line

Lima will again be the testing ground of an interurban car propelled by gasoline if plans of the American Railway Operating Co. are carried out.

This company has reached a tentative agreement with the owners of the Defiance branch of the C. C. & E. railway whereby gasoline driven cars will be placed in service in the near future.

Henry Ford attempted to solve the transportation puzzle on his D. T. & I. railroad and met the same result as promoters of the Dan Patch line in Minnesota did several years ago. The experiments failed.

A new type of car is now being constructed, chamber of commerce officials have been told, and will soon be ready for a test here. Greatly decreased costs of operation are believed to be possible.

Local interurban engineers are watching with interest the preparations and agree if the tests are successful the whole system of interurban transportation may be revolutionized.

DOCTOR TELLS LIONS OF TRAVELS ON CONTINENT

An interesting descriptive talk of his travels in Europe was given the Lions at their Wednesday luncheon by Dr. Harry S. Noble of St. Mary's, who has visited three continents and nineteen countries.

The speaker gave a word picture of the historic place of France, particularly Versailles and the battle fields. His impression of England, Spain, and Algiers were told in an interesting manner.

James Grubb, favored the Lions with vocal numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Grubb. A number of visitors were present.

HARDING APPEALS TO BANKERS

Aid in Reconstruction of World Urged by President

COOPERATION IS DEMANDED

Tribute Paid to Financial Institutions in Message

NEW YORK. — (United Press.) — President Harding today urged the financial interests of America to aid in the financial and economic reconstruction of the world.

In a message to the American Bankers Association convention, the chief executive declared the increasing appeals of the world for American cooperation in solving the problems resulting from the war "cannot be denied."

These appeals, Mr. Harding said, "call for an application of the same spirit of wide and willing cooperation which is the very basis of the development of our banks."

"Today our country, the world, all humankind, are demanding that cooperation be extended to wider realms," he added.

After referring to the part that the bankers played during the war, the president's message said:

"I wish to appeal to your great organization in behalf of my conviction that another, a more inclusive, and perhaps a more difficult opportunity of service is presented to you."

"The banking community has also contributed in national problems. COOPERATION DEMANDED"

"Today our country, the world, all humankind, are demanding that this cooperation be extended to wider realms, to those social, moral, ethical problems which are crying for understanding attention. They cannot be denied they grow increasingly insistent. They call for an application of the same spirit of wide and willing cooperation which is the very basis of the bank."

"I have often thought of the bank as the first among modern institutions of social unification. On the basis of a complete confidence in its integrity and aims, it aggregates together in vast, available masses, the scattered bits of credit and resources which otherwise would be unavailable for great undertakings and makes possible the huge producing organizations which characterize the modern industrial community. We have come to times which require a like aggregation of the social sense, the ethical ideals, the moral inspirations and the best intelligence in order to promote the true welfare of men individually and in communities. This I have come to regard as the most pressing requirement of our day; and to its accomplishment I invite the assistance of you men who have been foremost among social cooperation. This world is not given to rewarding those who serve it, with opportunities for ease and pleasure. Instead, on those who have been tested and found useful, it is wont to place yet greater burdens. To a full share in these obligations I am now urgently inviting you."

"By experience, knowledge and aims, you bankers are peculiarly equipped to render large service in the wide sphere. It has long been my observation that the leadership of the banking forces in the local community is ever effective and devoted to community welfare; and the same helpful relationship must be maintained throughout the nation and in the nation's outside relations."

RANKS MUST LEAD

"Therefore, in recommending our people to sane expenditures, to ways of economy and thrift to the consideration of municipal and national problems in that conscience which builds the temple of confidence, the banking forces must lead, and we must have the widest commitment to a common end, the deliberate understanding and the preference for useful service which makes for the security of our people as a whole."

"History teaches that blind effort to obstruct such movements has often produced momentary disaster but never prevented ultimate advance. The world is too old and ought to be too wise, to reserve such tactics now. Rather its best intelligence should be given to open minded cooperation in every earnest project of inquiry and analysis which looks to the general betterment."

"Thus will its most capable leaders help guide society away from pitfalls and dangers, while keeping it moving on the upward path. "I count the men of your profession as among such leaders; and I know that whoever can effectively impress you with the full importance of the duty I am to suggest will find satisfaction in the prompt and eager response which will come to him."

Beethoven's Art Wins In Battle With Turpentine

Can musical zeal surmount the nauseating smell of newly-applied paint?

A casual visitor at Memorial Hall Wednesday would have been forced to admit that the champions of Wagner, Beethoven, Mozart and other weavers of ethereal strains will brave odors of turpentine and smelly paint ingredients that assail the olfactory organs as a sacrifice to art.

Despite that a corps of painters were at the climax of converting walls and ceiling of the Memorial Hall foyer from a dingy green into on ivory, a committee of the Women's Music club remained there reserving seats for a musicale Thursday night.

Utterly disregarding the acid-laden air, the committee disposed of tickets with dispatch. Occasional drops of paint, falling from the painter's brush far overhead, were disregarded.

In vain the janitor strove to dissuade them, but nay—they held the fort.

LION HUNTERS IN FINAL DRIVE

Believe Roaming Beasts Will be Cornered Soon

MOUNT VICTORY. (United Press.)—Five hundred men combed the woods of the A. P. Nave farm near here Wednesday for two lions which for nearly a week have terrorized the residents of this district.

One of the beasts is believed to be wounded in the rear paw. A national guardman, who fired on them Tuesday, said he found blood-stained tracks leading off in the direction they fled.

The Nave woods comprised approximately 1,000 acres. Hunters declared they would scour it thoroughly. Fosses Wednesday were spurred on by several fleeting glimpses of the yellow beasts near here during Tuesday's hunt.

Prospective lion hunters flocked into Kenton and Mount Victory from as far south as Springfield and as far north as Toledo. Ohio's first big lion hunt, organized and carefully planned, was scheduled to start at 9 a. m.

Frank Gebert, who said he saw the lions Tuesday, will lead the hunt. He will be assisted by Fredrick Bondley, 77-year-old bear hunter. Spike Hennessee, crack rifle shot of the Toledo police force and 50 hunting dogs Wednesday augmented the strength of the hunting party.

HORSESHOE MEET

Columbus Grove Champs to Play Lima Firemen

The pick of Columbus Grove horseshoe pitchers will attempt Thursday afternoon at the E. High-courts to wrest flinging honors from the Lima fire apartment team, captained by Floyd Matthews.

Every one of the eight Columbus Grove pitchers is a champion, or near-champion in his locality and Matthews' aggregation expects some trouble.

The visiting team is composed of Levi Newlander, Amos Brucy, E. Anderson, C. Miller, B. Anderson, A. Mayberry, J. Kever and William Crawford.

The Lima lineup will be B. Burr, C. Wolf, J. Shaw, C. Hill, E. Strahm, F. Matthews, R. Wolf and C. Holman.

A gallery of several hundred fans is expected to view the contest.

MINE CONFERENCE OPTIMISTIC

Conclusion of Wage Commission Dispute Seen Wednesday

HARDING TO NAME BODY

Workers Ask Representatives of Both Sides be Included

CLEVELAND. — (Associated Press.)—With accredited spokesmen designated by the operators, bituminous miners and coal producers went into joint conference here Wednesday to carry out section three of the Cleveland agreement providing for the naming of a commission to formulate a method to be followed by the soft coal industry in negotiating a wage scale agreement to become effective April 1, 1923, when the present contract between miners and operators expires.

Both miners and operators were optimistic that conclusion of the joint conference would be reached Wednesday.

The question of naming a panel for presentation to President Harding from which a fact-finding commission would be selected, provided under the terms of the Cleveland agreement, was on Wednesday's joint conference program.

INSIST ON COMMISSION

At a caucus of operators late Monday it was decided that, since such a commission had been provided for under the Borah-Winslow coal bill, submitting a panel of names to the president for such a commission was not needed. Miners' officials, however, stated they insist on the naming of such a commission and leave the final selection to President Harding. Miners hold that the personnel of such a commission should include representatives of miners and operators.

A government telegram received since the conference opened asking the joint session to submit a panel of twenty names of persons "disassociated with the industry," indicates both operators and miners believe that the president will not include any persons engaged in the industry on the commission.

Following addresses Tuesday by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, Thomas H. Watkins of New York, president of the Pennsylvania Coal and Coke Corporation, all obstacles that have been a bar to a speedy conclusion of the conference seem to have been swept aside.

RUMMAGE SALES HALTED BY COURT ROOM CHANGES

Weekly rummage sales, which have been a time honored institution at the court house, will cease to be.

The assembly hall in the basement used for the sales is to be remodeled for an extra court room. Bids for fitting the room up are being advertised by the county commissioners.

Owing to the nature of the work the contracts can be split up, and let immediately as they come under the $500 limitation.

RECORD OF ABDICATION OF CONSTANTINE LOST; SUSPECT SYMPATHIZERS

ATHENS. — (Associated Press.)—Constantine's act of abdication disappeared. The document is said to have been seized by military officials sympathizing with the deposed monarch in an effort to save him his throne. The officials believed, it is said, that the revolutionary troops would adhere to the old king when they landed in Greece on arriving from the Aegean islands where the revolution started.

Former Premier Triantafyllidis sent the original document to the National printing plant but the officials prevented its reproduction and it is assumed made away with it.

M. Triantafyllidis has promised to give Acting Premier Krokidas a letter sent him by Constantine regarding his abdication.

$17,500 SOUGHT BY SALESMAN

Brings Action Against Fisk Tire Co., for Commissions

An action to collect $17,500 commission alleged to be due from the Fisk Tire Co., New York, for sale of tires and rubber products to Lima truck companies, was instituted in common pleas court Wednesday by Frank P. Sevier, agent, 730 State-st.

Sevier sets forth that he was employed in 1917 as agent for Fisk Tires in Lima territory and furthermore was empowered to act as a wholesale distributor. He was to receive a salary, and a reasonable commission, he says.

Especially, was this firm anxious to sell the Garford and Gram-Bornstein truck companies, then engaged in turning out fat war contracts for the United States government, his petition avers. He declares he was instructed to pay particular attention to that class of business.

Sevier, avers, he did so, and was able to sell $50,000 worth of tires to Gram-Bornstein, and $300,000 to the Garford plant, he relates.

He declares that the tire company never has adequately compensated him for this amount of business. He is therefore seeking judgment for a five percent commission on sales, or a total of $17,500.

BRANCH BANK IS NEW PROBLEM

Small Communities Oppose Spread of Larger Institutions

PUELICHER, NEW A. B. A. HEAD

Believes in Service to Public Essential to Success

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK — (Special) — The president of the American Bankers Association, now meeting thousands strong in New York, is J. H. Puelicher, of Milwaukee, and a fellow doesn't walk in shoes like his.

Mr. Puelicher has been as keenly interested in satisfying his employees as in satisfying his customers. Mr. Puelicher is of the type who doesn't believe that a bank exists merely to take deposits and lend them out at a high rate of interest as possible. He believes that a banker should do all he can for his community and that, in doing it, a banker and those associated with him should get a maximum of happiness out of the work and out of business.

He once said to me: "No business that exists solely for the purpose of making money for its shareholders can hope to be wholly successful."

Why not? "For the same reason that no man who lives for himself alone can hope to reach the top of the ladder. A business institution is valuable to a community in so far as it serves the wants of the public in so far as it provides for its employees' opportunities for their advancement, as well as opportunities for earning a livelihood."

Here his institution, the Marshall and Fish Bank, handles its employees during sickness and health, should be helped not only by other bankers but by other employers. It has a fund of many thousands of dollars and business. A recent Mr. Puelicher's ideas.

Well, the answer is that a bank has prospered remarkably, and here he is selected as president of the national association.

A national movement would be a good, old-fashioned fight. The B. A. convention is staging a heavyweight set-to. The opponents are the advocates of branch banks and the anti-branch bankers.

Some of the more powerful national banks want to be allowed to open branches, at least in their cities and if deemed feasible in their own states. A great many of the smaller banks are against such move. The latter is the legislation permitting national banks to dot a state with branches would lead to the acquisition of overwhelming voting power by "Wall Street."

The fight started Monday but reports were barred.

The opponents of branch banks claim that if the country were covered with branches of gigantic central institutions, the small banks would suffer even worse competition than small merchants suffer from mail-order houses. They claim also that the fellow sent to run these branches would be in the community but not of the community, that they wouldn't have the same knowledge or interest in local affairs, that local business men would have their applications for loans passed upon by officials and directors at headquarters, who might not thoroughly conversant with local institutions.

There are unquestionably many strong objections to transforming America into a branch bank.

Yet, the whole trend of modern business and modern finance and modern banking towards bigness? does not large units, large organizations been found necessary in most lines of activity?

Having been brought up in a country where branch banking has operated with the fullest success, and I don't recall a single bank that in the last twenty-five years, has probably made hard to fight. I have seen arguments against branch banks, especially as I'm very familiar with the conduct of banking not only in Scotland but in England and also in Canada.

This question is to be addressed on Wednesday by a man who is one of the largest bank in the world and it has 1600 branches. That branch could have won her present banking power through the world but she had only thousands of small banks, not even doubtful, it is certain that she wouldn't. During the last two years we have had a remarkably large number of bank failures and bank embarrassments. Thus, too, notwithstanding the financial valuable services rendered by the Federal Reserve Banks, the establishment of which, it is argued, has largely done away with the need for branch banking.

I believe that branch banking will come into vogue in this country regardless of any action the A. B. A. may take this year or next or the year after.

But I also believe that it will not be set out intelligently-managed small banks all over the country, any more than chain stores and mail-order houses have ruined well-managed grocery stores or other stores.

Let us now turn to another phase of the big gathering in New York. Some 5,000 delegates had registered up to yesterday morning, and a grand total of 10,000 is expected. This is the number ever recorded at any previous convention. I mingled with the delegates yesterday with representative bankers from various sections of the country and I didn't encounter a single pessimist, no, not one.

All talk of improving conditions. President's several tributes were paid to the value of the work done by the War Finance Corporation, under the aggressive guidance of Eugene Meyer Jr., is helping different sections to pull through the hard times of the last two years.

employment of last fall has been completely wiped out. A man who wants to work has difficulty in getting work. A matter of fact high-grade experts in various lines are now mighty scarce and their services are being competed for."

Henry Ford is one of Mr. Livingston's directors and the two have been champions since the days Ford was getting less than one hundred dollars a month. I was particularly interested to learn from Mr. Livingston, who used to dangle Edsel Ford on his knee, that Edsel is a most promising young man, industrious, modest, courteous, ambitious, democratic, wholly without tricks. "His mother," said Mr. Livingston, "is chock full of horse sense, a real American mother in the fullest sense of the word."

Every furniture factory in the Grand Rapids territory is running at full blast, said Clay H. Hollister, President of the Old National Bank of Grand Rapids. "We are building two new hotels and putting an addition on a third," remarked Mr. Hollister. "There is a lot of home-building, but not any overbuilding. It is becoming hard to get labor. Some factories have ordered on hand sufficient to keep them busy over eight months to come. Things generally in the city are in comfortable condition. We have the commission form of government and the city has just passed a railway franchise which is very acceptable both to the company and to the city."

Mr. Hollister's father was cashier of the Old National from the day it opened its doors so that it was natural for Clay to follow in his father's footsteps. He became president years ago.

Down South they talk about the extraordinary growth of the American National Bank of Nashville, Tenn., since P. D. Houston became its president four years ago. Its last statement showed it led the city. "I'm a great believer in Organization," declared Mr. Houston. "We haven't a man on our board who isn't an owner of at least 100 shares of the bank. All are men who have played a successful part in the building of Nashville."

"The 125 mile radius served by Nashville," said Mr. Houston, "has recovered remarkably this year. We are now back close to normal. Our two principal money crops, cotton to the south and tobacco in the north have commanded good prices and have had satisfactory yields. The advance of thirty to forty per cent in the price of livestock has greatly helped the territory contiguous to the Nashville section. Our farmers are now able to buy whatever they need and are really enjoying a full share of the comforts and luxuries of life."

"Organized labor troubles have not hit Nashville as we have an open shop town. The whole outlook is most encouraging."

William H. Crocker, of the Crocker National Bank of San Francisco, had a similarly cheerful tale to tell of conditions in California.

So had John Otley, of the First National Bank of Atlanta, Ga.

It will do New York's bankers immense good to rub shoulders with the bankers, understanding forward-looking bankers from North, South, East and West. These "out of town" bankers are men who really have their fingers on the pulse of things thruout every corner of the continent. They report that American agriculture and American industry and American commerce are going about their business actively and confidently, without becoming unduly panicky over what Mustapha Kemal may do or not do.

THOUSANDS DIE IN FLOOD

Cholera Adds to Horror of Disaster in Bengal

CALCUTTA — (Associated Press) — Floods in Northern Bengal have taken an enormous toll of life, according to passengers on the first train to reach here from Darjeeling in eight days. It is impossible to estimate the extent of the disaster at present, but the travelers estimate that several thousand persons have been drowned, other thousands made homeless and destitute and valuable crops destroyed. The floods are said to be the worst in the history of Bengal. An outbreak of cholera is adding to the difficulties of the relief workers.

FIVE ARE FINED

Liquor Charges Net City $1,000 Wednesday Morning

More than $1,000 was added to the city coffers by liquor fines when five men arrested on charges of bootlegging entered pleas of guilty before Judge Emmett J. Jackson. All of them could not pay, but were given a time by the court to settle or go to the jail.

William Thomas, 38, of 444 S. Main-st., who was bound over on a federal charge, was switched back to criminal court and pleaded guilty. He paid $300 fine for his alleged illicit sales. Dave McGuire, 26, bartender in Thomas' soft drink saloon was fined $100.

Other fines paid were, Eli Brentlinger, $200; and Harry Watt, $200. C. N. Dixon, fined $300 had not paid his fine by noon.

WASHDAY FIRE CAUSES BLAZE ON HOUSE ROOF

A red hot stove stoked for washday and a defective chimney combined to produce a small roof blaze at the residence of Porter Ermond, 309 E. High-st., Wednesday. Firemen from Central station extinguished the fire with chemicals and a few buckets of water. The house is the property of Robert Tolian.

tempt to abrogate the treaty made with the Soviet foreign minister on March 16, 1921, which permits the Soviet and the Black sea countries to share in the control of the straits. Many of Kemal's advisers have no love for the Russo-Turk alliance and feel that it is time to repudiate an agreement which has ceased to be useful to the Kemalists.

Cancellation of the treaty therefore is regarded by many of the nationalists as a sound national policy.

TIME LIMIT EXTENDED

SMYRNA — (Associated Press) — The local Turkish authorities have extended the time limit for evacuation of the Christian refugees from Smyrna to October 8, owing to the discovery in the suburbs of considerable numbers of persons who have been unable to leave under the provisions of the original Turkish invitation. These refugees now are being marshaled by the Turkish gendarmes in a house to house search and are being turned over to the American relief committee for embarkation.

FIRST WOMAN SECRETARY

CONSTANTINOPLE — (United Press) — The first Mohammedan woman secretary in history—Nebahat Hanoum—accompanied the Kemalist delegation to Mudania.

That Mustapha Kemal views the Mudania party as one of extreme importance, was testified by the fact that Fevzi Pasha, his chief of staff, General Resat Pasha, and Hamid Bey have accompanied Ismet Pasha to the conference.

GREECE CALLS SOLDIERS

LONDON — (United Press) — Greece has called up for possible resumption of war the military classes of 1917 and 1918, and has instructed her delegates to Mudania to reject any proposal for evacuation of Thrace, according to a News Agency dispatch from Athens today.

The new Greek generalissimo Nider, departed for Thrace this morning, according to a United Press dispatch direct from the Greek capital.

Indications are that the Greeks will once more wage war against the Turks, unless permitted to retain positions in the Thrace basin east of the Maritza river.

In a letter to the Times today, Venizelos protests against the proposed handing over of eastern Thrace to the Turks.

The allied commissioners have called Greece's attention to the importance of restraining her troops from clashing with the Turks. They have received a protest from Mustapha Kemal to the effect that Greeks in Thrace are pillaging and burning.

DECEIT USED IN WINNING HER, WIFE'S PETITION SAYS

Charges that she had been induced to marry thru deceit, and that she was thrown upon her own resources for support, were incorporated in a divorce petition filed in common pleas court Wednesday by Ada Klopfer against William Klopfer. Klopfer, the petition sets forth, is now in Los Angeles, Calif., jail serving a term on a charge of forgery. The couple were married in Columbus in May, 1918, and have no children. The plaintiff asks that she be allowed to resume her former name, Ada Becker.

CREASY DEFIANT AFTER VERDICT

Convicted Sweetheart Says He Will Get New Trial

MINEOLA, N. Y. — (United Press) — Defiant even in the shadow of the electric chair, William Creasy the "Kentucky sweetheart" declared today he is confident he will get a new trial on a charge of murdering Edith Lavery, Freeport, N. Y., teacher.

"I'm not dead yet," he said. Creasy was convicted of first degree murder last night and will be sentenced Saturday.

The jury deliberated for two hours over the hundreds of letters written by, or to the slain woman and over the bloody pillow and the weapon with which the killing was done.

Without the twitch of a muscle, Creasy listened to the verdict. His father hurried to his side to speak comforting words. As he was being led back to his cell his sister flung her arms around his neck and clung to him desperately.

On the other side of the court room relatives of the dead woman listened to the verdict apparently unmoved.

A motion for a new trial was denied and Creasy's attorneys announced they would appeal the case.

BILLBOARD STRIPPERS STEAL BERLIN'S ADS

BERLIN. — Billboard strippers constitute a new type of thief on Berlin's police blotter. Due to the increased value of wastepaper, the plundering of street advertisements has set in.

The thieves work at night, and so far have confined their activities mainly to the round poster pillars which dot the city's thoroughfares, adorned with varicolored bills advertising theaters, restaurants, dance halls, etcetera. One young man was found to have torn down 50 kilograms of old paper and stored it at home for future sale.

ENGLAND'S BABIES SAVED AGAIN

Death Rate Among Children Decreases Rapidly

LONDON — (Associated Press) — Only a little while ago alarmists were indulging in all sorts of dire predictions concerning the future of England because, it was alleged, not enough babies were being born. The great middle class, called the backbone of the country, was declared by some pessimists to be doomed to speedy extinction unless it produced more babies.

Now these lamentations have ceased. Some far-seeing and logical statisticians point out that the future of a country is not determined so much by the number of babies born as by the number of babies which survive the first year of life and grow up. Looked at from that angle England is not doing so badly in this all important matter.

During the month of August it is pointed out that the death rate of children under one year of age was only 41 per 1,000 births. In 1914 London's rate for the same period was 55.

Compared with the beginning of this century the baby-saving figures are still greater cause for rejoicing among those who reckon the future of England depends, above all things, on babies. The first four weeks of August 1901 gave an infant mortality rate for London of 267—more than six times that of 1922 which proves, it is argued, that if babies can save England, England will be saved.

NEGRO DRAWS SENTENCE FOR STEALING MACHINE

That automobile stealing is to be a healthy occupation in the future in Allen County is indicated by the sentence imposed in common pleas court on John J. Clarke, negro. Clarke was sentenced to Ohio state penitentiary for an indeterminate sentence of 1 to 14 years. Clarke, pleaded not guilty when arraigned Monday, but charged in the plea following and was sentenced by Judge Fred C. Baker.

WHAT IS NORMAL, MR. FESS?

SIMEON D. FESS, Republican candidate for United States senator, said one thing in his challenge to Democrats yesterday at Columbus he may have trouble explaining.

After painting a beautiful picture of the present national administration, Mr. Fess said the administration found agriculture prostrated thru rapid liquidation. He added that "thru a specific concrete program of rehabilitation, agriculture is again normal or as nearly so as conditions thru which we came will permit."

We presume Mr. Fess is accepting the statement credited to President Harding that a dollar a bushel is enough for wheat as his basis for fixing normalcy. At least, wheat is just about that level.

If normalcy consists of bankruptcies of farmers, we have been witnessing, we cannot see how calling attention to it will help the party of which Mr. Fess is a leading member.

THE PRICE OF COAL IN OHIO

FAIR prices for coal have been fixed by the coal administrator named by Governor Davis. He has made a material out in the rate arbitrarily fixed by the operators some time ago—$5.50 a ton at the mines.

Lima coal dealers say the fair prices announced by the state official will mean $8.50 a ton for the better grades of coal delivered in the bins. This applies to Ohio coal. Prices for West Virginia and Kentucky fuel will be slightly higher.

This slice in prices will be appreciated, but still coal will cost too much. Various factors of which freight rates and wages are not the least important have combined to push the cost of fuel to the consumer above the level it should be. It is to be hoped that since some hope of relief has been held out by the state, it will assist in enforcing its findings.

CENSORSHIP AFFECTS NATION

PEOPLE of influence induce the Japanese government to suppress the news about a murder. The Kobe Herald appears with this headline "Terrible Tragedy." Below is a blank space.

You can't imagine it happening in America. And that is the chief reason we have no such autonomy as have the Japanese. Freedom of the people begins with freedom of the press. It also ends when press censorship begins.

SIEVE

CARRIE E. SCOTT, head of the children's department of the Indianapolis Public Library, says there are too many cases of mental indigestion among children due to choosing "half savors and desserts" in reading. She frankly compares a public library to a cafeteria.

"Mental indigestion" is a word combination that covers the nation like the morning dew. The stomach is said to waste only nine out of each one hundred mouthfuls of food. The brain digests and stores nine losses the rest. In one ear, out the other, intellect is a filter.

WORTHLESS

GERMANY changes its mind about printing 4,000,000,000 paper marks a day. Instead, she will print 7,000,000,000 a day. So announces the Reichsbank in Berlin. With the printing presses turning out over 2,000,000,000 (two trillion) marks a year, the day is rapidly approaching when the German mark will be as worthless as the Russian ruble, maybe not worth as much.

FURS

IMITATION furs will be "the thing" this winter, predicts a fashion authority. If so, it will be by necessity of pocketbook. If you doubt it, ask any woman to take her choice between imitation fur and Alaskan seal.

The attempt to popularize imitation furs is said to be part of the commendable movement to save fur-bearing animals from extinction and armistice in fur-trapping.

Until the coffee was served. Out, direct to the office, where sat long. Thence came James Hoffman, the versatile booster of the Lima Automobile club. Who told me much about Lima being on the new maps. And how benefits would come to garages, hotels and whatnot. Down to Nagel's repairery, and find him a connoisseur most pleasing.

Ahead to meet Dr. Guy Bagly, the eminent dental surgeon; and dodged Wilson Hughes in his small car. Thence saw Frank Bentz and chatted long with him, seeking a way to build houses faster than buyers come to his office. Yet he finds it an Herculean task. Sweet country girls shopping in beavers, with the naive charm of young doves. Avoiding the sarsaparilla dens as they hasten to this and that, before returning to the dairy and kitchen.

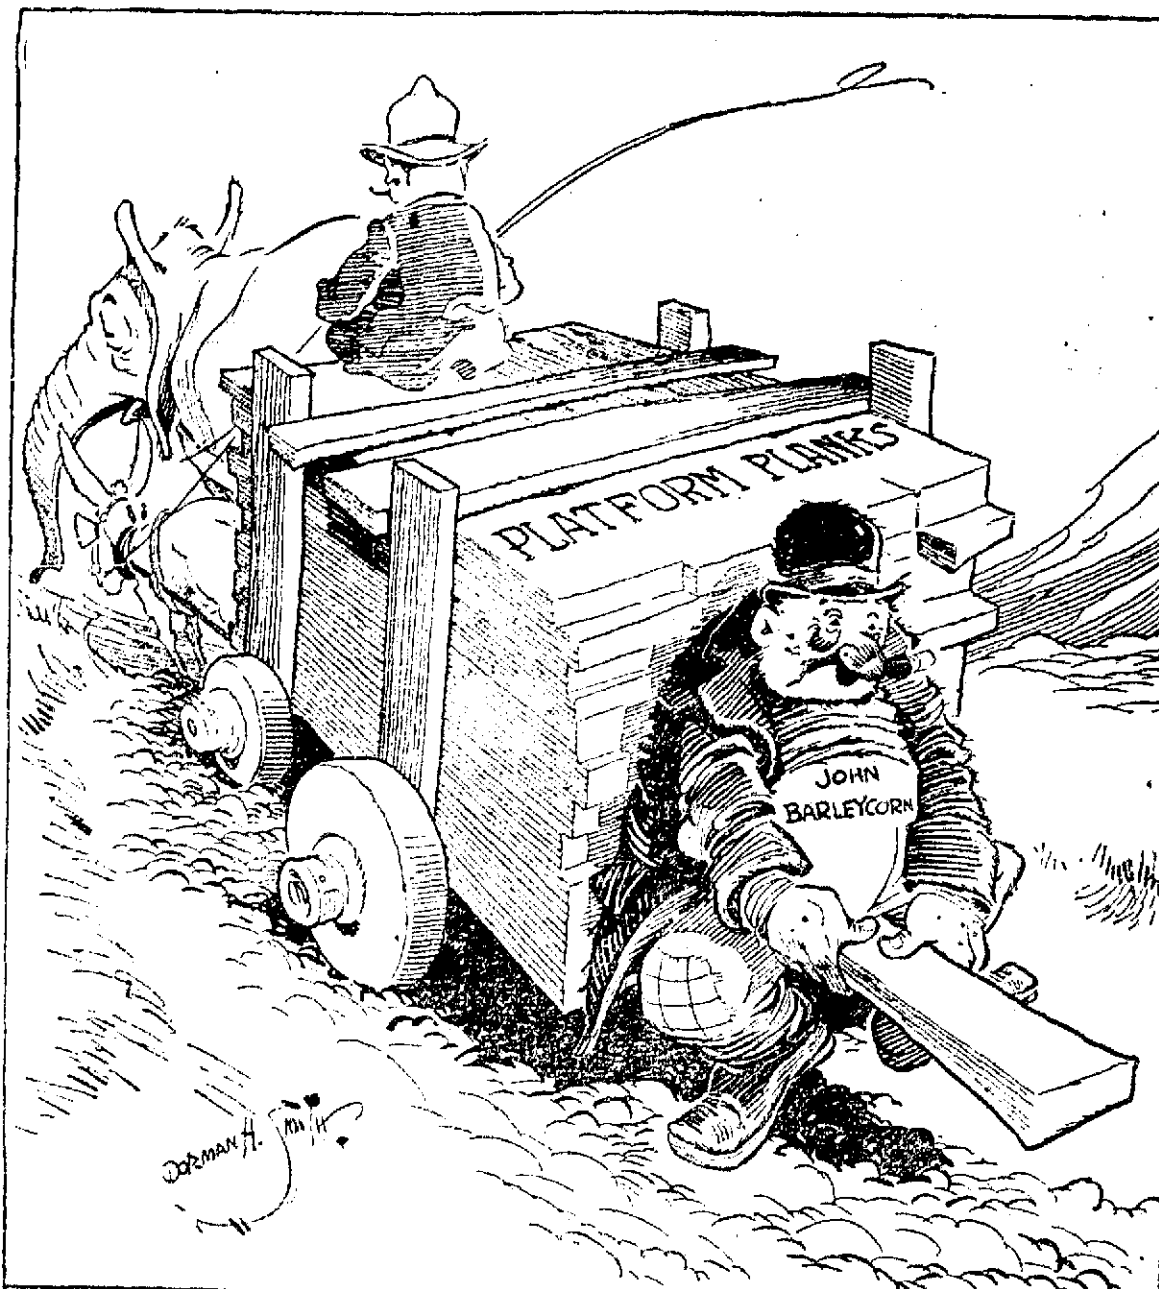

Lunched aquatire with friends, and talked of business and scribbling. And do find I am in poor caste with many whom I that loved me deeply. More the pity. Waved to W. L. Russell and Frank Banta, the candy king, going out for the short course, we think. Strolled into Blum's and filled, while my wife, poor wretch, was busied picking sheets and pillow cases. Out, to a hardware store for floor polish; seeing there Elmer Thomas, the globe trotter. More farmers than have come to town in many the day. In the afternoon, worked hard at my stint, to little or no avail. So, viewed a piece of cloth at Tommy Thompson's toggery, which would make up over my silhouette to fyne form. Yet need it quickly, and Tommy overlapped with cash customers. Into the Argonne tooth paste parlors, and got a new brush. Went down on Eureka street and viewed a lot I own, which is more a small reservoir, methinks. Dirt dumpers have special permission for their overflow on that fifty by hundred. Saw near, the first of the pumping stations for our new sewer-river improvement. Coming rapidly, which should double values along the frontage.

Dined on chops and Byng beans, with a banana pie for the sweet. Ventured to the poste, looking into the box, yet it was no place for me. And did not try the key. So home, working long over a map showing Smyrna but no Thraee. Found it on the European side. The British seem holding a winning hand, and there will be no invasion by American hals of those famous and romantic harems.

THE MIRACLE

Out of a seeking tongue she trips,
Dainty and slim and delicately fair,
Her cheeks are rose, and rose-red are her lips.
She is a flower, grown in tainted air;
You can't believe she could have flourished there.

Where even noon-day sun is in eclipse,
Where grim reality the glimmer strips
From all life's dreams and leaves them stark and bare.

Yet here she is, a flower lush and glowing,
That throbs, somehow, in rank and feld soil;
Young maidenhood, with light and
bliss
And eyes which disillusion can not spill;
And—miracle which few can under-

There is a million like her in

DON'T CATCH COLD

(BY DR. R. H. BISHOP)

With the cold weather not far distant comes the danger of colds, influenza and gripe, with their discomfort, and more serious results.

Too many precautions cannot be taken to prevent an epidemic as in past years.

The gripe germ is one of the smallest disease-producing bacteria known.

It grows in the mouth, the throat, and the bronchial tubes.

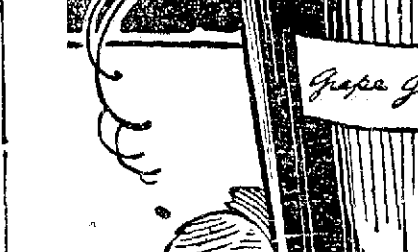

The germ is in the sputum and the discharges of the nose, and enters the body thru the mouth and nose.

It causes a depression and weakness that often lasts for months and may be followed by pneumonia, tuberculosis, bronchitis or eye and ear disease. Frequently the stomach, kidneys or the nervous system are left in a weakened condition by an attack of gripe.

To avoid contracting gripe, or any other contagious disease, for that matter, the following "don'ts" are well to remember:
Don't let a person sneeze or cough in your face.
Don't forget to cover every sneeze or cough.
Don't get your feet wet and don't stand long on cold pavements or on snow.
Don't get into crowded places where there is apt to be poor ventilation.

Don't wear heavy clothes, sweaters or heavy coats in the house.
Don't sit in a room that is hot and stuffy and then step out into the cold air.
If you have a cold don't go out among people. Rest is bed in the best thing for you.

Try This If You Have Dandruff

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

You Can Make Your Grape Jelly in Six Minutes

Make it with Pen-Jel! Even if the grapes are fully ripe, with Pen-Jel it will "jell" just the same. Now you can do away with all the usual worry and uncertainty in making up your grape and all other jellies.

No matter what kind of jelly you plan to put up—pineapple, rhubarb, pear, plum, peach, orange, or mint—be sure to use Pen-Jel. It will only take you 6 minutes to turn the juice into bright sparkling jelly, delicate yet firm and upstanding.

You Can't Fail With Pen-Jel

It's Nature's own jelly maker, the very element in some fruits which causes their juice to jell. Pen-Jel is just the right combination of this pure fruit pectin—in dry powder form—the finest cane sugar, and tartness.

Makes delicious conserves and jams in 30 minutes, and it's wonderful for meringues and icings! Try it today with any kind of fruit you happen to have on hand. Keeps indefinitely even after the package is opened. The most economical and satisfactory way to make jelly of every kind.

IF LEATRICE IS LOSER, SHE'LL BE GOOD ONE

(By ESTHER WAGNER)
LEATRICE JOY, the lovely heroine in "Orphans of the Storm," deserves all the success she has attained. In her dressing room, in a battered silver frame, on paper yellow with age, you will see this little prayer:
"O God, help me to win, but if I fail, let me not be a loser."
She has read that little placard every day for the past five years, she says. It helps her over the rough places.
"Once I had just finished my part in a small comedy when I received word that a certain director wanted to see me," she said. "I hurried out to his studio only to find that ten minutes before I arrived he had given a big role in a feature picture to another girl."

"That was just about the biggest disappointment I had had. I was crying when I got back to my room, but when I read that little prayer I quit crying. I knew another chance would come some day."
The chance evidently came, for Leatrice recently refused the feature role in a big production because she felt that it wasn't appropriate for her. Now she has started in the picture "Orphans of the Storm," following her present course, is headed straight and surely for the stardom of filmdom. She has beauty, ambition, sincerity and, more important, a sense of humor.
Her work she takes seriously, her success lightly. If mention is made of good work she has done in a film, she is very likely to dismiss it with some frivolous remark, such as "Gee, ain't it great to be famous."

How was Scotty, the artist, able to catch Leatrice Joy in so serious a mood? She doesn't stay serious more than a minute at a time.

FINANCES WORRY CITY OFFICIALS

Commission to Meet Today to Discuss Fund Problem

A special meeting of the city commission will be held late Wednesday afternoon to consider the present state of the city's finances and attempt to discover some means for obtaining more money next year.

With but little more than $100,000 to be available next year for the operating expenses of the city and with the appropriation for police and fire departments running around $170,000 something must be done.

Members of the city commission have formed no definite ideas as to the steps to be taken, Mayor Harold Cunningham said Wednesday. A number of plans have been studied, it is understood.

Critical conditions existing in the public service department of the city will also be considered. Funds are exhausted and pay rolls must be met immediately.

Bills for the city's street lights during the past two months are also due and money must be obtained to pay them. A portion of the funds may be provided for by transfers from other departments, it is believed.

It is the opinion of the commission that the board of health cannot be had, the joint meeting to discuss the inspection of meats was postponed until later this week or early next week.

"Oh Uncle," the current offering at the New Orpheum theatre, tomorrow begins its engagement Wednesday. New program on Thursday, by the same company.

AT THE MAJESTIC:—
Katherine MacDonald and Wesley Barry are co-starring in "Stranger Than Fiction," at the Majestic today.

CINEMAGRAMS
William Strauss is to be starred in a picture of Jewish life called "The House of Solomon."

Strongheart, the dog actor, was taken to New York to play in the picture of Albert Payson Terhune's "His Dog." He shed all his hair in the new climax and so has been shipped back to the northwest to make a picture there.

The cast of the film version of "If Winter Comes" includes Ann Forrest as Lady Tybar, Percy Marston as Mark Sabre, Arthur Metcalf as Haggood, Sydney Herbert as Twining, Wallace Kolb as Harold Twining, and William Kolb as Rev. Sylvester Fortune.

Betty Blythe, who starred in "The Queen of Sheba," will make four pictures for Whitman Bennett. The first will be "How Women Love."

IS NOW SENSATION OF OLD LIMA

Public is Fast Awakening to Fact That Plant Juice is Un-usual Remedy

A TOLEDO MAN TESTIFIES

Since coming to Lima a few weeks ago, Plant Juice and The Plant Juice Man have gained such wide popularity over the city and this herbal extract remedy has accomplished such surprising results in

E. W. LEGRON
Lima cases, that the introduction of the medicine now amounts to almost a sensation.

The Plant Juice Man is now busy all day long at Hunter's drug store at 49 Public Square, Lima, explaining Plant Juice to the men and women who call to ask about this natural remedy that is manufactured from the invigorating, life-giving juices of medicinal plant life.

In many other cities over the United States, Plant Juice has given relief in more than a million cases of stomach, liver and kidney trouble, nervousness, catarrhal affections of the mucous membranes and rheumatic aches and pains. The following testimonial was recently received at Toledo, Ohio, from Mr. E. W. Legron, a well known Toledo man, living at 3351 Detroit avenue.

"About three years ago I began to suffer from indigestion," said Mr. Legron. "My food disagreed with me and caused my stomach to fill up with gas and this resulted in such pain in my stomach and chest that I could hardly stand it. I felt sore across the shoulders and about the ribs and could hardly eat anything without suffering for hours afterward. I lost 30 pounds and got so bad I couldn't work for 15 weeks."

"I want to say that the very first bottle of Plant Juice did me a world of good and I continued to take it until I was completely cured. Now I feel like an altogether different man. I can eat any kind of food I care for now and I never suffer at all from gas or pain in my stomach and chest or the soreness about my shoulders and across my ribs and I simply can't say too much for Plant Juice after what it did for me."

The Plant Juice Man is at Hunter's drug store, 49 Public Square, Lima, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Plant Juice is sold also in Lima at Hunter's drug store at Main and Wayne streets and at the Argonne drug store, opposite Post Office.

CHICKEN SUPPER AT MARKET ST. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 4, 7:30 P. M. EVERYBODY INVITED.

HUNGER STRIKERS ARE WEAK

Alleged "Ponzi" Operators at Pomeroy Now Eating

POMEROY — (Associated Press) — Mrs. Susan Kraus, and her husband George Kraus, who are under arrest charged with having obtained approximately $300,000 from residents of this territory by giving promissory notes in return and holding out promises of great interest, were still weak today following the breaking of their several days' hunger strike in the county jail last night.

Until late yesterday, neither Kraus nor his wife had partaken of food since their arrest last Friday. Accusations charging forgery were filed against the couple yesterday. In addition to the original charges of embezzlement, the forgery accusation was filed by Attorney A. W. Lee, representing Lizzie Seffried, who charges Mrs. Kraus forged the name of her son, M. A. Kraus, to a note for $6,400.

George Kraus, a son living in Columbus, was placed under arrest late yesterday and is being held as a witness. Another son, Mr. Kraus of this city yesterday resigned as secretary of a building and loan company here, and disappeared. Officials are seeking him, as they desire him as a witness in the case. RECEIVER IS NAMED

COLUMBUS — Federal Judge Salter has appointed John McQuigg, of Pomeroy, to temporarily take charge of the property of Mrs. Susan Kraus, held at Pomeroy with her husband on charges of forgery and embezzlement. The couple is alleged to have obtained more than $300,000 on unsecured notes, promising large returns on investments made with them.

Mr. McQuigg will act as receiver until a trustee is selected by Mrs. Kraus' creditors.

GERMAN MARKS REACH NEW LOW IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK — Heavy offerings of German marks in the Paris and London markets caused the local rate to drop today to 4 3/4 cents a 100, a new low record.

There was a divergence of view in local financial circles as to the cause of the decline. In some quarters the activity of German printing presses, which are now turning out paper marks at the rate of more than one billion a day was held responsible for their further depreciation. Selling for purely speculative purposes also was blamed for the reaction.

Other foreign exchanges were firm, indicating that the fall of the mark was essentially a German problem.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It and Don't Know It," says a Physician. Frequently Mistaken for Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furrowed, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, turning in stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician. Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucus membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon leads, if not treated, to the most frequent and insidious disease in the human body, cancer. In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bismuthated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucus from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the bismuthated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bismuthated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bismuthated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bismuthated Magnesia with other forms of Magnesia, milk, etc. Get it in the pure bismuthated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose. —Adv.

IN celebration of the 10th birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Helen Hager, Mrs. O. B. Schultz, of State-st., delightfully entertained a group of little girls at her home, Tuesday afternoon.

Games and a concert, in which Katherine Glover was successful, were the diversions. At 5 o'clock a dainty repast was served by the hostess. Decorations and favors in keeping with the occasion prevailed.

The little guests included Katherine and Margaret Glover, Nancy Jane Mitchell, Mary Louise Bradley, Delight Myers, Charlotte Laughlin, Joan Dunn, Katherine Baechler, Alice Mary Basden, Jane Matthews, Lillian Kuhlman, Greta Poulton, Audrey McGuff and Mary Boyls.

Little Miss Margaret, Ann Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto C. Barr, welcomed a happy group of little girls at the Hotel Barr in celebration of her 10th birthday anniversary.

A dainty luncheon of several courses was served at 1 o'clock. Twenty-two were seated at a large table in the private dining room, which was prettily decorated with flowers and "Hallow's Eve" favors for the occasion. A large birthday cake with 10 burning candles added to the attractiveness of the table.

Throughout the afternoon various games were enjoyed. Miss Elizabeth Schrader assisted in entertaining the little guests, giving several amusing readings appropriate for the enjoyment of the little folk.

The little guests included: Nancy Jane Mitchell, Josephine and Clara Hingham, Martha and Norma Lutzman, Frances Leidner, Rosemary Pluck, Virginia Merchant, Mary Elizabeth and Josephine Bayle, Ruth Evelyn Smith, Mary Jane Nye, Alice Rose McKelley, Mildred Vorseburg, Leola and Vera Gibson, of Wapakoneta and Edna Barr.

Mrs. M. P. C. of W. Market-st. extended the hospitality of her home to the members of the Marion's Society of Market Street Presbyterian church for a most interesting meeting, Tuesday afternoon.

The assistant hostesses included Mrs. O. B. Schrader, chairman; Mrs. Fred Agnew, Mrs. M. C. M. Callough, Mrs. W. G. Graham, Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie and Mrs. E. T. Mitchell.

About 40 members were present and almost the entire afternoon was devoted to the discussion of plans for the future. Mrs. Roy Dunlap favored with a reading and dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Next meeting will be held Tuesday, November 7th with Mrs. W. C. Ludwig, of Shawnee.

Miss Helen Jones, Miss Marion Agnew and Helen Hollister, representatives of Market Street Presbyterian church; Miss Elizabeth Applegate, Miss Ruth Maurer and Frederick Roberts, representatives of Trinity M. E. church; Miss Edith Hardesty, Miss Evelyn Silver and Carl Holmes, representatives of Trinity M. E. church, were present at the Young People's meeting, Tuesday evening and will continue thru Thursday and Friday. Mrs. Otis T. Lippincott is chairing the group of young delegates from this city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Seymour Bullock and daughter, Genevieve, returned to their home in South Bend, Ind., after a short stay with Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Drake, of Lakewood-ave.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: All in a quindry as to what step I should take and I want your advice. I went with a wonderful girl for over a year until about a month ago. She failed to do what I expected. I extended to her and this made me mad. I have not invited her any place nor come with her since then. Now I realize that she is the only girl I care for. What can I do to regain her love and affection? I am in distress.

SIMPLY telephone her "Jim" and ask her if you may have the privilege of calling on her. Then (providing she grants your wish) apologize to her for your indifference toward her and ask that she renew the friendship. What could be easier?

You did not state why this girl refused to accept your invitations. Perhaps she found it impossible to be with you and if she gave a plausible excuse you should have accepted it and not felt offended.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) Will the sport coats with fur collars be in style this winter? Are they suitable to wear in the winter? (2) Do you think that a black, satin faced evening dress would look well trimmed in fur? If so, what kind of fur would you recommend? (3) Do you think that the complexion clay that is on the market now is of any value? (4) Will you please give me a real good remedy for blackheads? My face is in a very poor condition and I have tried almost everything that is recommended for blackheads. (5) I have not found anything that has helped me. Please give me the very best treatment you know of. (6) Could a doctor give anything to help blackheads? Would you advise me to see a doctor? (7) Do you think that the younger girls will wear long dresses this winter? (8) I have a black head. Five ounces of alcohol, two ounces of rose water and two spoonfuls of boracic acid. Wipe this over the face after having bathed it with green soap or a green soap solution, which may be purchased at any drug store. (9) If after trying the remedy, which I suggested, the blackheads fail to disappear it would be wise for you to see your physician. Perhaps he can prescribe a treatment for you. (10) Yes, in fact, they are gradually coming down now.

(1) The sport coats will be worn very extensively this winter. (2) Yes, it would look very well trimmed in fur. You might use seal, squirrel or monkey fur. Any of these would be very attractive. (3) Yes, it is very true for any one whose complexion requires these treatments. (4) Try the following remedy for blackheads: Five ounces of alcohol, two ounces of rose water and two spoonfuls of boracic acid. Wipe this over the face after having bathed it with green soap or a green soap solution, which may be purchased at any drug store. (5) If after trying the remedy, which I suggested, the blackheads fail to disappear it would be wise for you to see your physician. Perhaps he can prescribe a treatment for you. (6) Yes, in fact, they are gradually coming down now.

Mrs. H. C. Thew, of 1700 Lakewood-ave, will extend the hospitality of her home to the members of the Home Extension committee of the City Federation of Women's clubs Friday at 2:30 p.m., when they will entertain with a benefit bazaar party. Mrs. Theodore Eysenbach is chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Howard Chew, of S. Cole-st., and Mrs. Vernon Hoesellman, of W. Wayne-st., are entertaining as their guests, Miss Martha Shayback, of Lafayette, Ind.

Honoring Miss Shayback, Mrs. Chew and Mrs. Hoesellman, will entertain with a luncheon-bridge at the Hotel Norvel, Saturday.

A birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Holmes, of W. Grand-ave, Sunday in celebration of the 60th birthday anniversary of Mr. Holmes.

The day was enjoyed in music and social chat and at noon an elaborate dinner was served.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. William Prosser, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Order and children, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Holmes and children and Paul Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Landis, of S. Callet-st., are home from a week's stay in Cincinnati, where they attended the state convention of the Kiwanis club.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Shriver, of W. Callet-st., are home from Washington D. C., where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hayne, of that city.

Why some people sleep "Lightly"

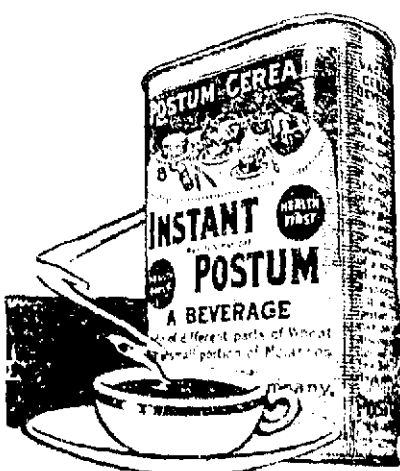

THE PRINCIPAL REASON is irritated nerves, and the common cause of nerve-irritation is coffee and tea drinking. For each cup of coffee or tea contains from one and one-half to three grains of caffeine.

Caffeine has a tendency to agitate the nervous system, when the nerves, normally, should be relaxed. The result is that you fail to get the deep, restful sleep that restores health and vigor.

If you have any idea that coffee or tea is injurious to your health, drink delicious Postum, instead. Postum is the pure cereal beverage that helps the nervous system, by permitting you to get sound, revitalizing sleep.

Serve this fragrant, mealtime beverage. You and the family will be surprised and pleased with its delicious, coffee-like flavor. And better health is worth while.

Postum comes in two forms:—Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully twenty minutes.

Sally Transformed

By Zoe Heckley

Golden told Sally to come to the theater for rehearsal the following morning at 10. She and Miss Bennett had lunch at an entrancing tea-room and the afternoon was given over to shopping.

"Those ankles," Lucy Bennett was saying to herself, "must be got into silk stockings—and a pair of shoes bought. I can't look at those runner heels another instant!"

Sally, numb with emotional strain, merely tagged along to Lucy's wake. The shop windows fascinated her. The women in the street drew her attention, but with a curious reaction.

"Bathing suits!" Sally gripped Miss Bennett's arm. "That's what they're wearing. Ugly, too. I shouldn't want to look like that." And Lucy Bennett experienced again that feeling that Sally in that founding body of hers did not have a foundling soul.

"What would you pick out?" she asked her curiously.

"Oh—I don't know. Something that doesn't show too much of—look too fancy, like a—servant girl."

Lucy Bennett "got" Sally's idea, eagerly expressed the idea. She took her to a quiet, exclusive place on Fifth avenue in the Fifties and said a few words in an undertone to the woman manager.

It was a curious study to Lucy to see the inverting taste with which Sally chose her outfit (paid for, 50c), by Golden and the newspaper syndicate).

"No—not the red one," she told the saleswoman with the air of an experienced shopper. "The blue suits me better. And I like these long, loose sleeves with the gay embroidery."

"I want that brown street suit," she went on, to Miss Bennett. "Oh, I've always so longed for a suit with a fur collar and cuffs." And indeed Sally moved about in it in a way that would have opened Mrs. Stanley's fishy eyes, could she have seen her there.

When Miss Bennett said an evening frock—not too eveningy, but something that could suitably be worn to the theater and to supper—would be needed, Sally chose a sleeveless, low-cut, creamy crepe, thing with uneven lines at the bottom and flaring panels lined with the same cream as the skirt. In the green, pale rose, lavender and buff.

With the donning of it, Sally looked a different girl. To the manner born she seemed, her lovely arms and slim, little throat taking on a refinement undreamed of. "Now we'll have them sent to the hotel," said Lucy. "And you, my dear, must take 40 minutes. We shall dine at your hotel and go afterward to the Frolics. Golden says we must show you what you're going to be a part of!"

It was Lucy Bennett, rather than Sally, who got the thrill of that evening's entertainment.

Lucy, in her black headed gown, was given but a passing glance as the two girls entered the hotel dining-room. But to Sally, in the creamy frock that shimmered as she walked—how did she ever learn to walk like that, wondered Lucy—a hundred eyes were directed.

By some miracle she had the knack of arranging her straight, blonde hair so that her pretty head had distinction. Her cheeks were brightly pink with excitement. Her eyes sparkled feverishly.

"And now," said Lucy when they had finished dinner and a taxi was called.

It was Mrs. J. W. Dimond and daughter Frances, of N. James-av. and home from a week-end stay in Wooster.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schmidt, of S. McDowell-st., had as their guests over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller and daughter, Miss Pauline, of Wapakoneta.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rush, of S. Main-st. left for Missouri for an extended trip.

TO SALLY A HUNDRED EYES WERE TURNED, waiting, "now for the Birds of Paradise!" (To Be Continued.)

THE FLAMING JEWEL

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In some manner, MIKE CLINCH, proprietor of a disreputable camp in the Adirondacks where he lives with his beautiful daughter, EVE STRAYER, is concerned in the mystery of the priceless flaming jewel. The flaming jewel was first stolen from a refugee countess of Esthonia by QUINTANA, the great international thief. He took it to his New York agent, SARD, who is now held by Mike Clinch.

CLINCH DARRAGH, who has sworn to recover the jewel for the countess, has taken the letter and goes to Clinch's cabin where he works under the name of HAL SMITH. He is trailed by State Troopers, but Eve, who knows his true name, will cause him more trouble than he can handle.

When State Trooper Stormont came out on the edge of Owl Marsh, he found Eve kneeling by the water, washing her face from her slender, sun-tanned fingers.

"What are you doing here?" she asked, looking up over her shoulder with a slight smile.

"Just having a look around," he said pleasantly. "That's a nice fat back you have there."

"Yes, he's nice," she said. "You shot him?" asked Stormont.

"Who else do you suppose shot him?" she asked, smiling. She raised her fingers again and stood up, swinging her arms to dry her hands—a lithe, gray-shirted figure in her boyish garments, straight, supple, and strong.

Stormont smiled too, then became grave.

"Who else was with you?" he asked quietly.

She seemed surprised. "Did you see anybody else?"

He hesitated, flushed, pointed down at the wet sphagnum. Smith's footprints were there in the damp contrast to her own. Worse than that, Smith's pipe lay on an embedded log, and a rubber tobacco pouch beside it.

She said with a slight catch in her breath: "It seems that somebody has been here. . . . Some hunter, perhaps—or a game warden."

"Or Hal Smith," said Stormont.

A painful color swept the girl's face.

"Hal Smith is wanted. I'm here to take him."

As she said nothing, he looked down at the foot-print in the sphagnum. Then his eyes moved to the next imprint, to the next. Then he moved slowly along the water's edge, tracking the course of the man he was following.

The girl watched him in silence until the plain trail led him to the spruce thicket.

"Don't go in there!" she said sharply, with an odd tremor in her voice.

He turned and looked at her, then stepped calmly into the thicket. And the next instant she was among the spruces, too, confronting him with her rifle.

"Get out of these woods!" she said.

He looked into the girl's deathly white face.

"Eve," he said, "it will go hard with you if you kill me. I don't want you to live out your life in prison."

"I can't help it. If you send my father to prison he'll die. I'd rather die myself. Let us alone, I tell you! The man you're after is nothing to us. We didn't know he had stuck up anybody!"

"If he's nothing to you, why do you point that rifle at me?"

"I tell you he is nothing to us. But my father wouldn't betray a dog. And I won't. That's all. Now get out of these woods and come back tomorrow. Nobody'll interfere with you then."

Stormont smiled: "Eve," he said, "do you really think me as yellow as that?"

Her blue eyes flashed a terrible warning, but, in the same instant, he had caught her rifle, twisting it out of her grasp as it exploded.

The detonation dazed her; then, as he flung the rifle into the water, she caught him by neck and belt and flung him bodily into the spruces.

But she fell with him; he held her twisting and struggling with all her superb and supple strength; staggered to his feet, still mastering her; and, as she struggled, sobbing, locked hot and panting in his arms, he snapped a pair of handcuffs on her wrists and flung her aside.

She fell on both knees, got up, shoulder deep in spruce, blood running from her lip over her chin.

The trooper took her by the arm. She was trembling all over. He took a thin steel chain and padlock from his pocket, passed the links around her steel-bound wrists, and fastened her to a young birch tree.

Then, drawing his pistol from its holster, he went swiftly forward thru the spruces.

face and throat. The man, sorry for her, looked away.

After a silence: "I know something about you," he said. Gently.

"And now that I've seen you—heard you speak—met your eyes—I know enough about you to form an opinion."

So I don't ask you to turn informer. But the law won't stand for what Clinch is doing—whatever provocation he has had. And he must not aid or abet any criminal, or harbor any malefactor."

The girl's features were expressionless. The passive, sullen beauty of her troubled the trooper.

"Trouble for Clinch means sorrow for you," he said. "I don't want you to be unhappy. I bear Clinch no ill will. For this reason I ask him, and I ask you too, to stand clear of this affair."

"Hal Smith is wanted. I'm here to take him."

As she said nothing, he looked down at the foot-print in the sphagnum. Then his eyes moved to the next imprint, to the next. Then he moved slowly along the water's edge, tracking the course of the man he was following.

The girl watched him in silence until the plain trail led him to the spruce thicket.

"Don't go in there!" she said sharply, with an odd tremor in her voice.

He turned and looked at her, then stepped calmly into the thicket. And the next instant she was among the spruces, too, confronting him with her rifle.

"Get out of these woods!" she said.

He looked into the girl's deathly white face.

"Eve," he said, "it will go hard with you if you kill me. I don't want you to live out your life in prison."

"I can't help it. If you send my father to prison he'll die. I'd rather die myself. Let us alone, I tell you! The man you're after is nothing to us. We didn't know he had stuck up anybody!"

"If he's nothing to you, why do you point that rifle at me?"

"I tell you he is nothing to us. But my father wouldn't betray a dog. And I won't. That's all. Now get out of these woods and come back tomorrow. Nobody'll interfere with you then."

Stormont smiled: "Eve," he said, "do you really think me as yellow as that?"

Her blue eyes flashed a terrible warning, but, in the same instant, he had caught her rifle, twisting it out of her grasp as it exploded.

The detonation dazed her; then, as he flung the rifle into the water, she caught him by neck and belt and flung him bodily into the spruces.

But she fell with him; he held her twisting and struggling with all her superb and supple strength; staggered to his feet, still mastering her; and, as she struggled, sobbing, locked hot and panting in his arms, he snapped a pair of handcuffs on her wrists and flung her aside.

tingly. After a few seconds Smith came out.

"Good God!" said Stormont in a low voice. "What are you doing here, Darragh?"

Darragh came close and rested one hand on Stormont's shoulder. "Don't crab my game, Stormont. I never dreamed you were in the Constabulary or I'd have let you know."

"Are you Hal Smith?"

"I sure am. Where's that girl?"

"Handcuffed out yonder."

"Then for God's sake go back and act as if you hadn't found me. Tell Mayor Chandler that I'm after bigger game than he is."

"Climb?"

"Stormont, I'm here to protect Mike Clinch. Tell the Mayor not to touch him. The men I'm after are going to try to rob him. I don't want them to because—well, I'm going to rob him myself."

Stormont started.

"You must stand by me," said Darragh. "So must the Mayor. He knows me thru and thru. Tell him to forget that hold-up. I stopped that man Sard. I frisked him. Tell the Mayor. I'll keep in touch with him."

"Of course," said Stormont, "that settles it."

"Thanks, old chap. Now go back to that girl and let her believe that you never found me."

A slight smile touched their eyes. Both instinctively saluted. Then they shook hands; Darragh, alias Hal Smith, went back into the hemlock-shaded hole in the rock;

Trooper Stormont walked slowly down through the spruces.

When Eve saw him returning empty handed, something flashed in her pallid face like sunlight across snow.

Stormont passed her, went to the water's edge soaked a spiny handful of sphagnum moss in the ice water, came back and wiped the blood from her face.

The girl seemed astounded; her face surged in vivid color as he unlocked the handcuffs and jockeyed them and the little steel chain.

Her lip was bleeding again. He washed it with wet moss, took a clean handkerchief from the breast of his tunic and laid it against her mouth.

"Hold it there," he said.

Mechanically she raised her hand to support the compress. Stormont went back to the shore, recovered her rifle from the shallow water, and returned with it.

As she made no motion to take it, he stood it against the tree to which he had tied her.

Then he came close to her where she stood holding his handkerchief against her mouth and looking at him out of steady eyes as deeply blue as gentian blossoms.

"Eve," he said, "you win. But you won't forgive me. . . . I wish we could be friends, some day. We never can, now. . . . Good-by."

Neither spoke again. Then of a sudden, the girl's eyes filled; and Trooper Stormont caught her free hand and kissed it—kissed it again and again—dropped it and went striding away through the underbrush which was now all rosy with the rays of sunset.

After he had disappeared, the girl, Eve, went to the cleft in the rocks above.

"Come out," she said contemptuously. "It's a good thing you hid, because there was a real man after you; and God help you if he ever finds you!"

Hal Smith came out.

"Pack in your meat," said the girl curtly, and flung his rifle across her shoulder.

Thru the ruddy afterglow she led the way homeward, a man's handkerchief pressed to her wounded mouth, her eyes preoccupied with the strangest thoughts that ever had stirred her virgin mind.

Behind her walked Darragh with his load of venison and his alias—and his tongue in his cheek.

Thus began the preliminaries toward the ultimate undoing of Mike Clinch. Fate, Chance, and destiny had undertaken the job in earnest.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

QUEEN'S CAR IS STOLEN

By Olive Roberts Barton

It had taken the old wizard 11 years to make it.

The next thing the Fairy Queen lost was her automobile.

It had been given to her by the Green Wizard who was an old, old friend of the family.

It wasn't an automobile like you or I have, my dears, or like the neighbors across the street have.

No, it was a very unusual automobile, and it had taken the good old wizard 11 years to make it magical enough to present to the Fairy Queen.

Yes, it was magical. So very magical that it didn't need anyone to run it at all and it could think for itself. Anyone who owned it could make it do anything he wished by just wishing!

But there was one thing to remember. This wonderful automobile would serve only one master at a time and the last person to turn the shiny handle just between the figamacrak and the thingamabob on the whirlingig was the only person whose wishes this wonderful machine would obey.

I suppose now that I have told you, everyone will be writing to the Green Wizard and ordering one of these wonderful cars. Because, without a doubt, it's much easier than having to pull handles this way and that and push things with your feet and turn a big wheel and watch the road every second.

All you'd have to say would be: "Magis auto, do not dally. I wish to visit my Aunt Sally."

And whist! You'd be there! Or: "Magic auto, please to stop. And let me out at the butcher shop."

And there you'd be. Well, that's the kind of car somebody stole from the Fairy Queen and she sent for the Twins at once to help hunt.

IN celebration of the 10th birthday anniversary of her little daughter, Helen Hager, Mrs. O. B. Schultz, of State-st., delightfully entertained a group of little girls at her home, Tuesday afternoon.

Games and a contest, in which Katherine Glover was successful, were the diversions. At 5 o'clock a dainty repast was served by the hostess. Decorations and favors in keeping with Halloween prevailed.

The little guests included Katherine and Margaret Glover, Nancy Jane Mitchell, Mary Louise Bradley, Delight Myers, Charlotte Laughlin, Jean Dunn, Katherine Buchler, Alice Mary Basden, Jane Matthews, Lillian Kuhlman, Greta Poulin, Audrey McElrath and Mary Barty.

Little Miss Margaret, Ann Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orla G. Barr, welcomed a happy group of little girls at the Hotel Barr in celebration of her 10th birthday anniversary.

A dainty luncheon of several courses was served at 1 o'clock. Twenty-two were seated at a large table in the private dining room, which was prettily decorated with flowers and Halloween favors for the occasion. A large birthday cake with 10 burning candles added to the attractiveness of the table.

Throughout the afternoon various games were enjoyed. Miss Elizabeth Schradt assisted in entertaining the little guests, giving several amusing riddles, appropriate for the enjoyment of the little folk.

The little guests included: Nancy Jane Mitchell, Josephine and Claire Bligham, Martha and Norma Litchman, Frances Leisher, Rosemary Elch, Virginia Storch, Mary Elizabeth and Josephine Barry, Ruth Evelyn Scott, Mary Jane Nye, Alice, Rose DeKady, Mildred Vengedang, Lenta and Vera Gibson, of Wapakoneta and Edna Barr.

Mrs. M. P. C. of W. Market-st., extended the hospitality of her home to the members of the Marion's Society of W. Market-st., for their regular meeting, Tuesday afternoon.

The assistant hostesses included Mrs. O. B. Schultz, chairman; Mrs. Paul Acertor, Mrs. G. M. McCulloch, Mrs. W. G. Graham, Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie and Mrs. E. T. Mitchell.

About 40 members were present and almost the entire afternoon was devoted to the discussion of plans for the future. Mrs. Roy Banta favored with a reading and many refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Next meeting will be held Tuesday, November 14th with Mrs. W. C. Cady, of Shawnee.

Miss Helen Jones, Miss Marion Johnson and John Hollister, representatives of Market Street Presbyterian church; Miss Elizabeth Whitcomb, Miss Ruth Maurer and Frederick Roberts, representatives of Trinity M. E. church; Miss Edith Hardy, Miss Evelyn Syer and Carl Holmes, representatives of Perry-st., left Wednesday for Tulsa, where they will attend the State Young People's meeting. The conference will convene Wednesday evening and will continue through Thursday and Friday. Mrs. O. T. Lippincott is chaperoning the group of young delegates from this city.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Seymour Bullock and daughter, Genevieve, returned to their home in South Bend, Ind., after a short stay with Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Drake, of Lakewood-ave.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart: I AM in a quandary as to what step I should take and I want your advice. I went with a wonderful girl for over a year until about a month ago. She failed to accept two invitations I extended to her and then she told me that I had not been her girl. I have not been her girl since that time. Now I wonder if I should write her and tell her that I am not her girl. What can I do to remain her girl? Please advise me for I am in distress.

SIMPLY telephone her "Jim" and ask her if you may have the privilege of calling on her. Then (providing she grants your wish) apologize to her for your indifference toward her and ask that she renew the friendship. What could be easier?

You did not state why this girl refused to accept your invitations. Perhaps she found it impossible to be with you and if she gave a plausible excuse you should have accepted it and not felt offended.

Dear Miss Smart: (1) Will the coat with fur collar be in style this winter? Are they suitable to wear in the winter? (2) Do you think that a black jacket faced with ermine would look well trimmed in fur? (3) As you kind of fur would you suggest? (4) Do you think that the combination coat that is on the market now is of any value? (5) Will you please give me a good remedy for blackheads? My face is in a very poor condition and I have tried almost everything that is recommended for blackheads. Yet I have not found any thing that has helped me. Please give me the best treatment you know of. (6) Could a doctor give anything to help blackheads? (7) Would you advise me to use "Pore" cream? (8) Do you think that the summer girls will wear long dresses this winter?

A FRIEND IN NEED (1) The sports coats will be worn very extensively this winter. (2) Yes, it would look very well trimmed in fur. You might use seal, squirrel or monkey fur. Any of these would be very attractive. (3) Yes, it is very fine for any one whose complexion requires these treatments. (4) Try the following remedy for blackheads: Pour ounces of alcohol, two ounces of rose water and two teaspoonsful of boracic acid. Wipe this over the face after having bathed in luke warm water. (5) If after trying the remedy, which I suggested, the blackheads fail to disappear it would be wise for you to see your physician. (6) Perhaps he can prescribe a treatment for you. (7) Yes, in fact, they are gradually coming down now.

FAMED BEAUTY WEDS STAR ATHLETE

Mrs. Rinaldo, famous beauty and daughter of Joel Rinaldo, writer, is now the wife of E. A. Littauer, one of the star all-around athletes of Columbia University. The marriage has just been announced.

Mrs. H. C. Thow, of 1700 Lakewood-ave., will extend the hospitality of her home to the members of the Home Economics committee of the City Federation of Women's clubs Friday at 2:30 p.m., when they will entertain with a benefit bazaar party. Mrs. Theodore Eysenbach is chairman of the committee.

Mrs. Howard Chew, of S. Collet-st., and Mrs. Virginia Hesselman, of W. Wayne-st., are entertaining as their guests, Miss Martha Stalback, of Lafayette, Ind.

Honoring Miss Stalback, Mrs. Chew and Mrs. Hesselman, will entertain with a luncheon-bridge at the Hotel Norvel, Saturday.

A birthday dinner was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Holmes, of W. Grand-ave, Sunday in celebration of the 49th birthday anniversary of Mr. Holmes.

The day was enjoyed in music and social chat and at noon an elaborate dinner was served.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. William Prosser, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Orvin Childer and children, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Holmes and children and Paul Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Landis, of S. Collet-st., are home from a week's stay in Cincinnati. While in that city they attended the state convention of the Kiwanis clubs.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Shinder, of W. Market-st., are home from Washington, D. C., where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hayne, of that city.

Friendship club will meet with Mrs. Larry Ferguson, of 715 Oak-st., Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schmidt, of S. McDonell-st., had as their guests over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller and daughter, Miss Pauline, of Wapakoneta.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rush, of S. Main-st., left for Missouri for an extended trip.

Why some people sleep "Lightly"

THE PRINCIPAL REASON is irritated nerves, and the common cause of nerve-irritation is coffee and tea drinking. For each cup of coffee or tea contains from one and one-half to three grains of caffeine.

Caffeine has a tendency to agitate the nervous system, when the nerves, normally, should be relaxed. The result is that you fail to get the deep, restful sleep that restores health and vigor.

If you have any idea that coffee or tea is injurious to your health, drink delicious Postum, instead. Postum is the pure cereal beverage that helps the nervous system, by permitting you to get sound, revitalizing sleep.

Serve this fragrant, mealtime beverage. You and the family will be surprised and pleased with its delicious, coffee-like flavor. And better health is worth while.

Postum comes in two forms:—Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages), for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully twenty minutes.

Sally Transformed

By Zoe Beckley

Golden told Sally to come to the theater for rehearsal the following morning at 10. She and Miss Bennett had lunch at an entrancing room and the afternoon was given over to shopping.

"Those ankles," Lucy Bennett was saying to herself, "must be got into silk stockings—and a pair of shoes bought. I can't look at those run-over heels another instant!"

Sally, numb with emotional strain, merely tagged along in Lucy's wake. The shop windows fascinated her. The women in the street drew her attention, but with a curious reaction.

"Bathing suits!" Sally gripped Miss Bennett's arm. "That's what they're wearing. Only, too, I shouldn't want to look like that." And Lucy Bennett experienced again that feeling that Sally in that foundling body of hers did not have a fondling soul.

"What would you pick out?" she asked her curiously.

"Oh—I don't know. Something that doesn't show too much or—look too fancy, like a—servant girl."

Lucy Bennett "got" Sally's idea, crudely expressed, and it was. She took her to a quiet, exclusive place on Fifth avenue in the Fifties and said a few words in an undertone to the woman manager.

It was a curious study to Lucy to see the unerring taste with which Sally chose her outfit (paid for, 50¢, by Golden and the newspaper syndicate).

"No, not the red one," she told the saleswoman with the air of an experienced shopper. "The blue suits me better. And I like these long, loose sleeves with the gay embroidery."

"I want that brown street suit," she went on, to Miss Bennett. "Oh, I've always longed for a suit with a fur collar and cuffs." And indeed Sally moved about in it in a way that would have caused Mrs. Stanley's fishy eyes, could she have been there.

When Miss Bennett said an evening frock—not too eveningy, but something that could suitably be worn to the theater and to supper—would be needed. Sally chose a blue-satin, lace-trimmed, creamy crepe-frock with twelve lines at the bottom and floating panels lined with dashing Roman stripes in Nile green, pale rose, lavender and buff.

With the donning of it, Sally looked a different girl. To the manner born she seemed, her lovely arms and slim, little throat taking on a refinement undreamed of.

"Now we'll have them sent to the hotel," said Lucy. "And you, my dear, must take 40 winks. We shall dine at your hotel and go afterward to the Frolies. Golden says we must—to show you what you're going to be a part of!"

It was Lucy Bennett, rather than Sally, who got the thrill of that evening's entertainment.

Lucy, in her black beaded gown, was given but a passing glance as the two girls entered the hotel dining-room. But to Sally, in the creamy frock that shimmered as she walked—how did she ever learn to walk like that, wondered Lucy—a hundred eyes were directed.

By some miracle she had the knack of arranging her straight, blonde hair so that her pretty head had distinction. Her cheeks were brightly pink with excitement. Her eyes shined feverishly.

"And now," said Lucy when they had finished dinner and a taxi was called.

Lucy and Mrs. J. W. Dimond and a sister Frances, of N. James-av., are home from a week-end stay in Worcester.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Schmidt, of S. McDonell-st., had as their guests over the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller and daughter, Miss Pauline, of Wapakoneta.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Rush, of S. Main-st., left for Missouri for an extended trip.

THE FLAMING JEWEL

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

BEGIN HERE TODAY

In some manner, MIKE CLINCH, proprietor of a disreputable club in the Adirondacks where he lives with his beautiful step-daughter, is concerned in the mystery of the priceless Flaming Jewel. The Flaming Jewel was first stolen from a refugee countess of Estonia by QUINTANA, the great international thief. He has possession of it and tries to his New York agent, and that is now held by Mike.

CHURCH DARRAGH, who has sworn to recover the jewel for the countess, takes the letter and goes to Clinch's club where he works under the name of "Hal Smith." He is called by State Trooper Stormont, but Eve, who knows his real name, warns him to get out of there. Stormont, while she is away, tells him to get out of there.

"Trouble for Clinch means sorrow for you," he said. "I don't want you to be unhappy. I bear Clinch no ill will. For this reason I ask him, and I ask you too, to stand clear of this affair."

"Hal Smith is wanted. I'm here to take him."

As she said nothing, he looked down at the foot-print in the sphagnum. Then his eyes moved to the next imprint; to the next. Then he moved slowly along the water's edge, tracking the course of the man he was following.

The girl watched him in silence until the plain trail led him to the spruce thicket.

"Don't go in there!" she said sharply, with an odd tremor in her voice.

He turned and looked at her, then stepped calmly into the thicket. And the next instant she was among the spruces, too, confronting him with her rifle.

"Get out of these woods!" she said.

He looked into the girl's deathly white face.

"Eve," he said, "it will go hard with you if you kill me. I don't want you to live out your life in prison."

"I can't help it. If you send my father to prison he'll die. I'd rather die myself. Let us alone, I tell you! The man you're after is nothing to us. We didn't know he had stuck up anybody!"

"If he's nothing to you, why do you point that rifle at me?"

"I tell you he is nothing to us. But my father wouldn't betray a dog. And I won't. That's all. Now get out of these woods and come back tomorrow. Nobody'll interfere with you then."

Stormont smiled: "Eve," he said, "do you really think me as yellow as that?"

Her blue eyes flashed a terrible warning, but in the same instant, he had caught her rifle, twisting it out of her grasp as it exploded.

The detonation dazed her; then, as he flung the rifle into the water, she caught him by neck and belt and flung him bodily into the spruces.

But she fell with him; he held her twisting and struggling with all her superb and supple strength; staggered to his feet, still mastering her; and, as she struggled, sobbing, locked hot and panting in his arms, he snapped a pair of handcuffs on her wrists and flung her aside.

She fell on both knees, got up, shoulder deep in spruce, blood running from her lip over her chin.

The trooper took her by the arm. She was trembling all over. He took a thin steel chain and padlock from his pocket, passed the links around her steel-bound wrists, and fastened her to a young birch tree.

Then, drawing his pistol from its holster, he went swiftly forward thru the spruces.

When he saw the cleft in the rocky flank of Star Peak, he walked straight to the black hole which confronted him.

"Come out of there," he said dis-tractly. After a few seconds Smith came out.

"Good God!" said Stormont in a low voice. "What are you doing here, Darragh?"

Darragh came close and rested one hand on Stormont's shoulder: "Don't grab my game, Stormont. I never dreamed you were in the Constabulary or I'd have let you know."

"Are you Hal Smith?"

"I sure am. Where's that girl?"

"Handcuffed out yonder."

"Then for God's sake go back and act as if you hadn't found me. Tell Mayor Chandler that I'm after bigger game than he is."

"Clinch?"

"Stormont, I'm here to protect Mike Clinch. Tell the Mayor not to touch him. The men I'm after are going to try to rob him. I don't want them to because—well, I'm going to rob him myself."

Stormont started.

"You must stand by me," said Darragh. "So must the Mayor. He knows me thru and thru. Tell him to forget that hold-up. I stopped that man Sard. I frisked him. Tell the Mayor. I'll keep in touch with him."

"Of course," said Stormont, "that settles it."

"Thanks, old chap. Now go back to that girl and let her believe that you never found me."

A slight smile touched their eyes. Both instinctively saluted. Then they shook hands; Darragh, alias Hal Smith, went back into the hemlock-shaded hole in the rocks; Trooper Stormont walked slowly down through the spruces.

When Eve saw him returning empty handed, something flashed in her pallid face like sunlight across snow.

Stormont passed her, went to the water's edge soaked a spicy handful of sphagnum moss in the ice water, came back and wiped the blood from her face.

The girl seemed astounded; her face surged in vivid color as he unlocked the handcuffs and pocketed them and the little steel chain.

Her lip was bleeding again. He washed it with wet moss, took a clean handkerchief from the breast of his tunic and laid it against her mouth.

"Hold it there," he said.

Mechanically she raised her hand to support the compress. Stormont went back to the shore, recovered her rifle from the shallow water, and returned with it.

As she made no motion to take it, he stood it against the tree to which he had tied her.

Then he came close to her where she stood holding his handkerchief against her mouth and looking at him out of steady eyes as deeply blue as gentian blossoms.

"Eve," he said, "you win. But you won't forgive me. . . . I wish we could be friends, some day. We never can, now. . . . Good-by."

Neither spoke again. Then of a sudden, the girl's eyes filled; and Trooper Stormont caught her free hand and kissed it—kissed it again and again—dropped it and went striding away through the underbrush which was now all rosy with the rays of sunset.

After he had disappeared, the girl, Eve, went to the cleft in the rocks above.

"Come out," she said contemptuously. "It's a good thing you hid, because there was a real man after you; and God help you if he ever finds you!"

Hal Smith came out.

"Pack in your meat," said the girl curiously, and flung his rifle across her shoulder.

Thru the ruddy afterglow she led the way homeward, a man's handkerchief pressed to her wounded mouth, her eyes preoccupied with the strangest thoughts that ever had stirred her virgin mind.

Behind her walked Darragh with his load of venison and his alias—and his tongue in his cheek.

Thus began the preliminary to the ultimate undoing of Mike Clinch. Fate, Chance, and destiny had undertaken the job in earnest.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

QUEEN'S CAR IS STOLEN

By Olive Roberts Barton

It had taken the old wizard 11 years to make it.

The next thing the Fairy Queen lost was her automobile.

It had been given to her by the Green Wizard who was an old, old friend of the family.

It wasn't an automobile like you or I have, my dears, or like the neighbors across the street have.

No, it was a very unusual automobile, and it had taken the good old wizard 11 years to make it magical enough to present to the Fairy Queen.

Yes, it was magical. So very magical that it didn't need anyone to run it at all, and it could think for itself. Anyone who owned it could make it do anything he wished by just wishing!

But there was one thing to remember. This wonderful automobile would serve only one master at a time and the last person to turn the shiny handle just between the jiggamcrank and the thingamabob on the whirling was the only person whose wishes this wonderful machine would obey.

I suppose now that I have told you, everyone will be writing to the Green Wizard and ordering one of these wonderful cars. Because, without a doubt, it's much easier than having to pull handles this way and that and push things with your feet and turn a big wheel and watch the road every second.

All you'd have to say would be: "Mags auto, go not daily, I wish to visit my Aunt Sally."

And whisk! You'd be there! Or: "Magic auto, please to stop And let me out at the butcher shop."

And there you'd be.

Well, that's the kind of car somebody stole from the Fairy Queen and she sent for the Twins at once to help hunt.

There arrested are Herbert Foust, a Marion-top farmer, residing with his wife at Scotts Crossing, and Mrs. Vancher, farm woman just east of Delphos.

Mrs. Vancher is reported to be the first woman ever brought into county court on a liquor charge, the advent of prohibition.

A raiding party of five prohibitionists, headed by H. E. Nichols and C. J. Cable, visited the two farms. Evidence had been obtained previously by detectives from a thirsty customer, they said.

PLANS EXTENSIVE
On the Foust farm a large still, capable of making 20 gallons of whisky at a run was found together with 50 gallons of mash, and a quantity of liquor.

Just as planning to convert his operations into "white lightening," according to dry agents. His operations have extended over a long period, he confessed to the officers. Such limiting of the opinion that has been plugged.

Some of the liquor was found in the home of Mrs. Vancher, a gallon of whisky, and 50 gallons of mash were found. The woman is believed to have a still located on her premises.

It was not found. The presenters were brought to the county jail and the county jail. The woman was prosecuted entirely on the basis of the evidence.

MAN AND WOMEN SEEK SEPARATION FROM MATES

Incompatible temperaments coupled with quarrelling and nagging disrupted the domestic felicity of Margaret and George Harrison, the former declared in a divorce petition filed Wednesday.

The couple were married in 1917 and have no children. The plaintiff asks to be allowed to resume her former name Margaret Dennis.

A petition alleging three years willful absence was filed in court Wednesday by John Maurer, against Marie Maurer, the couple were married in 1913, and the wife is alleged to have departed without notice, four years later. She has never returned the petition states.

FIREMEN TURN TO CITY SCHOOLS

Will Devote Day to Teaching Children Fire Prevention

City firemen will direct their attentions to schools and down town business houses Wednesday, in observance of Fire Prevention week.

Chief John Mack will speak at all of the City schools and will also conduct fire drills.

Tuesday more than two hundred and fifty properties were inspected by city firemen in most of which many improvements were ordered with the view of lessening fire hazards.

The department is unanimous in declaring that the biggest improvement for the future is to train citizens as voluntary firemen. In case of nearly every fire there are 40 or 50 spectators gazing at the crackling flames before the department arrives.

These are idle spectators who chance to be around at the time the blaze starts. "What these people could accomplish if instead of being merely spectators they could be transformed into voluntary firemen, doing what they could to check the flames," says Mack, "then by the time the department arrives instead of a blaze that is almost beyond control, they would encounter a fire that could be more readily handled by the greater facilities of the firemen."

White Plague. Subject of Speaker at Two Meetings

Dr. Gerald B. Webb of Colorado Springs, Col., ex-president of the National Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis, gave addresses on the white plague at a meeting of the Northwestern Ohio Medical society Tuesday afternoon and the Lima and Allen Co Medical academy Tuesday night, both meetings being held at the Elks' Home.

Webb was a lieutenant colonel in the late war and in charge of operations to stamp out tuberculosis in the A. E. F. He showed x-ray pictures in connection with his talks.

Dr. A. P. Basile, ex-president of the county medical body, knew the physician 12 years ago and it was thru his efforts that he was brought here.

Dr. R. J. Morgan of Van Wert was elected president of the Northwestern society. Dr. George Poltz of North Baltimore, first vice-president. Dr. R. C. Hunter, Wapakoneta, second vice-president and Dr. N. W. Gillette, Toledo, secretary.

Eighty-five physicians from northwestern Ohio attended the district meeting and many remained for the evening session of the academy, at which the attendance was estimated at 75.

Ordinance No. 1444

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE PRICE WHICH MAY BE CHARGED FOR STEAM HEATING SERVICE BY THE OHIO POWER COMPANY, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, SUCCESSOR OF THE OHIO ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY, TO THE CITY OF LIMA, OHIO, AND TO PERSONS, FIRMS OR CORPORATIONS, PUBLIC OR PRIVATE, RESIDING OR LOCATED IN THE CITY OF LIMA, STATE OF OHIO.

WHEREAS, The Ohio Power Company (hereinafter designated Company) has acquired a plant and distribution system suitable for the generation and delivery of steam for heating purposes in certain portions of the city of Lima, Ohio; and

WHEREAS, The Company has obligated itself, its successors and assigns, to operate such plant and to supply steam heating service to consumers adjacent to the existing distribution system; and

WHEREAS, it is desired by both the Company and its customers that such steam heating service be supplied during each heating season at the lowest possible rate which will permit the maintenance of adequate and satisfactory service together with a reasonable and fair return upon the value of the property devoted to this purpose; and

WHEREAS, the cost of operating such a steam heating system is variable and depends to a very great extent upon the cost of fuel, labor and maintenance of underground pipes and equipment; and

WHEREAS, it is recognized by the City Commission of Lima that the only way in which the customer may derive the full benefit of economical operation and the Company be protected against loss lies in the application of the cost of service plan to the steam heating service; now, therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LIMA, OHIO, AND IT IS HEREBY ORDAINED BY AUTHORITY OF THE SAME, THAT:

Section 1. For a period of ten (10) years from and after the passage of this ordinance, all charges made by the Company for steam heating service in the City of Lima, Ohio, shall be in accordance with the following schedule:

SERVICE CHARGE
A service charge shall be established prior to each heating season which, when applied to the number of square feet of radiation connected to the heating system, shall produce a sum equal to 8% of the value of the property devoted to the supply of such service. Such service charge to be paid in monthly installments during the months of October to April (both inclusive) of each heating season, and in addition thereto, each month, a charge for metered condensation, determined as follows:

CONDENSATION CHARGE
The condensation charge will be based on the cost of procuring steam and delivering same at the premises of the consumer and shall be arrived at by taking the total operating expense each month chargeable to this service (including taxes and depreciation) and dividing the total thereof by the total number of pounds of condensation. Operating expenses referred to herein shall be determined from the operating accounts of the Company which shall be kept in all respects in strict accordance with the uniform classification of accounts as approved by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

DELETED PAYMENT CHARGE
The monthly bills rendered by the Company, consisting of a service charge and a condensation charge, shall be net when account of the consumer is paid in full within ten (10) days from date of such bill. For all accounts not so paid the Company may make an additional charge of ten per cent. (10%) of the amount billed (but not less than the sum of $2.00).

Section 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after thirty days after its final passage, due publication according to law and acceptance by The Ohio Power Company.

Ordinance No. 1444

AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE PRICE WHICH MAY BE CHARGED FOR STEAM HEATING SERVICE BY THE OHIO POWER COMPANY, ITS SUCCESSORS AND ASSIGNS, SUCCESSOR OF THE OHIO ELECTRIC RAILWAY COMPANY, TO THE CITY OF LIMA, OHIO, AND TO PERSONS, FIRMS OR CORPORATIONS, PUBLIC OR PRIVATE, RESIDING OR LOCATED IN THE CITY OF LIMA, STATE OF OHIO.

WHEREAS, The Ohio Power Company (hereinafter designated Company) has acquired a plant and distribution system suitable for the generation and delivery of steam for heating purposes in certain portions of the city of Lima, Ohio; and

WHEREAS, The Company has obligated itself, its successors and assigns, to operate such plant and to supply steam heating service to consumers adjacent to the existing distribution system; and

WHEREAS, it is desired by both the Company and its customers that such steam heating service be supplied during each heating season at the lowest possible rate which will permit the maintenance of adequate and satisfactory service together with a reasonable and fair return upon the value of the property devoted to this purpose; and

WHEREAS, the cost of operating such a steam heating system is variable and depends to a very great extent upon the cost of fuel, labor and maintenance of underground pipes and equipment; and

WHEREAS, it is recognized by the City Commission of Lima that the only way in which the customer may derive the full benefit of economical operation and the Company be protected against loss lies in the application of the cost of service plan to the steam heating service; now, therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF LIMA, OHIO, AND IT IS HEREBY ORDAINED BY AUTHORITY OF THE SAME, THAT:

Section 1. For a period of ten (10) years from and after the passage of this ordinance, all charges made by the Company for steam heating service in the City of Lima, Ohio, shall be in accordance with the following schedule:

SERVICE CHARGE
A service charge shall be established prior to each heating season which, when applied to the number of square feet of radiation connected to the heating system, shall produce a sum equal to 8% of the value of the property devoted to the supply of such service. Such service charge to be paid in monthly installments during the months of October to April (both inclusive) of each heating season, and in addition thereto, each month, a charge for metered condensation, determined as follows:

CONDENSATION CHARGE
The condensation charge will be based on the cost of procuring steam and delivering same at the premises of the consumer and shall be arrived at by taking the total operating expense each month chargeable to this service (including taxes and depreciation) and dividing the total thereof by the total number of pounds of condensation. Operating expenses referred to herein shall be determined from the operating accounts of the Company which shall be kept in all respects in strict accordance with the uniform classification of accounts as approved by The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

DELETED PAYMENT CHARGE
The monthly bills rendered by the Company, consisting of a service charge and a condensation charge, shall be net when account of the consumer is paid in full within ten (10) days from date of such bill. For all accounts not so paid the Company may make an additional charge of ten per cent. (10%) of the amount billed (but not less than the sum of $2.00).

Section 2. This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after thirty days after its final passage, due publication according to law and acceptance by The Ohio Power Company.

MAN AND WOMEN SEEK SEPARATION FROM MATES

Incompatible temperaments coupled with quarrelling and nagging disrupted the domestic felicity of Margaret and George Harrison, the former declares in a divorce petition filed Wednesday.

The couple were married in 1917 and have no children. The plaintiff asks to be allowed to resume her former name Margaret Dennis.

A petition alleging three years' willful absence was filed in court Wednesday by John Maurer, against Marie Maurer, the couple were married in 1913, and the wife is alleged to have departed without notice, four years later. She has never returned the petition states.

FIREMEN TURN TO CITY SCHOOLS

Will Devote Day to Teaching Children Fire Prevention

City firemen will direct their attentions to schools and down town business houses Wednesday, in observance of Fire Prevention week.

Chief John Mack will speak at all of the City schools and will also conduct fire drills.

Tuesday more than two hundred and fifty properties were inspected by city firemen in most of which, many improvements were ordered with the view of lessening fire hazards.

The department is unanimous in declaring that the biggest improvement for the future is to train citizens as voluntary firemen. In case of nearly every fire there are 40 or 50 spectators gazing at the crackling flames before the department arrives.

These are idle spectators who chance to be around at the time the blaze starts. "What these people could accomplish if instead of being merely spectators they could be transformed into voluntary firemen, doing what they could to check the flames," says Mack, "then by the time the department arrives instead of a blaze that is almost beyond control, they would encounter a fire that could be more readily handled by the greater facilities of the firemen."

MEDICAL BODIES HEAR EXPERT

White Plague, Subject of Speaker at Two Meetings

Dr. Gerald B. Webb of Colorado Springs, Ala., expert on the National Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis, gave addresses on the white plague at a meeting of the Northwestern Ohio Medical Society Tuesday afternoon and the Lima and Allen Co Medical academy Tuesday night, both meetings being held at the Elks' Home.

Webb was a lieutenant colonel in the late war and in charge of operations to stamp out tuberculosis in the A. E. F. He showed x-ray pictures in connection with his talks.

Dr. A. F. Bassin, ex-president of the county medical body, knew the physician 12 years ago and it was thru his efforts that he was brought here.

Dr. R. J. Morgan of Van Wert was elected president of the Northwestern society. Dr. George Foltz of North Baltimore, first vice-president. Dr. R. C. Hunter, Wakarusa, second vice-president and Dr. N. W. Gillette, Toledo, secretary.

Eighty-five physicians from northwestern Ohio attended the district meeting and many remained for the evening session of the academy, at which the attendance was estimated at 75.

DETROIT — "It isn't prohibition so long as we have that one-half of one per cent feature." So declared E. E. Titus, of Jackson, nominee for U. S. Senator at the annual convention of Michigan Prohibitionists here.

MARKET BULLISH AT OUTSET

Higher Range for Stocks—Few Exceptions

LIBERTY BONDS

U.S. 4 1/2%	100.00
U.S. 4 1/4%	99.80
U.S. 4 1/2%	100.00
U.S. 4 1/4%	99.80

NEW YORK — Heavy buying of oil shares caused a further advance in prices in today's stock market. Declaration of a 100 per cent stock dividend by the directors of the Standard Oil Company of California resulted in a sensational demand for that stock, 7,000 shares being sold in the first few minutes at prices ranging from 131 1/2 to 133. The next sale was 200 shares at 131, an extreme rise of 6 points over last night's closing quotations and 14 1/2 above that of Monday.

Standard Oil of New Jersey was pushed up 2 points to a new high and gains of 1 to 2 1/2 were recorded by Houston, Associated Oil, General Asphalt, Pacific Oil and California Petroleum. National Biscuit was another individual feature, opening 2 1/4 points higher and soon extending its gain to 2 1/4 points to a new high record. Coca Cola also was in brisk demand rising 1 1/4 points, to a new peak price.

Rails were actively bought under the leadership of Lackawanna, Union Pacific and Rock Island, all of which improved a point or more. American Radiator also sold at a new high price.

Bullish operations were aggressively conducted throughout the morning, cables despatches stating that an armistice virtually had been agreed upon between the allied and Turkish commanders in the Near East contributing to the more cheerful sentiment.

Trading was largely of a professional character, but the volume of business indicated the reappearance of an investment demand on the part of small investors. The buoyancy of the Standard Oil group exercised a dominating influence on prices, but the resumption of active buying for public utilities, food, merchandising and standard railroad shares also accelerated the upward swing.

There were a very few exceptions to the rising trade, Delaware and Hudson and Pullman breaking 2 to 4 points on realizing sales and the Mexican Sea Board issues yielding a point in response to reports of further decreases in production in the Tehuacan fields. National Biscuit extended its gain to 12 points and Standard Oil of New Jersey to 6, while gains of 3 to 4 1/2 were made by Fisher Body, May Department Stores, Dupont, National Lead, Mexican Petroleum and United States Realty. Call money opened at 4 1/2 per cent.

STOCK AND GRAIN GOSSIP

Brown Shoe company declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1 to each preferred stock payable November 1.

A fourth extension of the price rally would not be surprising, the change holds. There seems to be a rather confident demand for first class oil stocks.

Profit taking is expected on strength of oil stocks, low-priced southwestern rails, electric, standard and oil, copper, U. S. Steel, Pierce Oil and others, issues.

Stewart-Warner sales for nine months just completed show an increase of 30 per cent over the same period of 1921.

Declaration of a stock dividend of 100 per cent is contemplated by the Standard Oil company of California, according to an announcement made by the company. According to plans the dividend will be paid December 9.

A London dispatch received in the financial district of New York said that the Royal Dutch and Standard Oil groups agreed to send representatives to Angola to negotiate with the Turkish Nationalist representatives for oil concessions in the Black and Caspian sea regions.

Duns reports 7,027 failures in the United States in the third quarter of 1922 with liabilities of $130,739,621, representing an increase of 73 in number, but $6,000,000 less compared with same period in 1922.

Twenty industrial stocks averaged 99.90; up 1.20. Twenty rails averaged 91.90; up 1.20.

Tone of the market is suggestive of an upward movement. The fact that Liverpool is following our advance on favorable news from Near East is helping.

Liverpool closed wheat - seven cents higher.

JUVENILES BLAMED FOR $300 JEWEL ROBBERY

Looting of the residence of F. W. Cook, 611 W. Elm-st., discovered Tuesday night, when $300 in jewelry and family heirlooms were found missing is attributed to work of juvenile criminals by police who investigated the premises Wednesday.

The valuables were stolen during the absence of the family last week. The property taken comprises three watches, a pearl necklace, a cameo brooch and three rings.

HENRY INVITED

DETROIT — "Build here, Henry! We are with you 100 per cent."

This is the sign Ypsilanti were placing in their store windows today in an effort to coax Henry Ford to come to good his plant to build a plant here in which 7,000 Ypsilanti were to be given work.
